MOB FANATICISM.

An Anti-Catholic Preacher Attacked with Stones by a Mob in Scranton, Penn.—He is Rescued by the Police.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SCRANTON, Penn., Oct. 22.—There was intense excitement in this city this afternoon. It was not unexpected, as it was currently reported, for a day or two past, that a mob would be on the street today. One day last week Rev. A. P. DEVLIN, so well known in all parts of the country as an Anti-Popery lecturer, arrived in town, and lost no time in making his whereabouts known. He succeeded in renting Kirfer's Hall for last night, but the proprietor, becoming alarmed at the many threats, refused to open the hall. DEVLIN, nothing daunted, made an effort to lecture on the streets, but was repeatedly hooted down. The crowd became so noisy and disorderly that he was compelled to retire for the night. It was generally known through the city that he would lecture on the street at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Precisely at that hour he mounted a hose-box on the corner of Lackawanna and Pennsylvania avenues, opened a Bible, and commenced his discourse. It was an attack on Catholics. Two minutes after he commenced a large crowd of men were seen coming down Pennsylvania-avenue. They had their pockets filled with stones and a great number were armed with clubs. They listened to the speaker for a few moments. When he referred to the Catholics as being thieves, murderers and cut-throats, the box on which he stood was kicked from under him and he fell to the pavement. He regained his feet and once more mounted the box, but was immediately thrown down again. Officer STILLWELL appeared on the scene and made an attempt to protect him. The crowd became infuriated, and cried loudly to kill him. The officer took him along the avenue, when some one in the crowd threw a stone which struck him on the back of the head, splitting it open. The crowd followed him, hooting and yelling furiously, until he managed to enter the Wyoming House. From there he was taken by a side door to the Forest House, where he now lies apparently in a dangerous condition. He is still determined to lecture, and avows his intention to speak again to-morrow. On the other hand, the mob swear that he shall not speak. The greatest excitement prevailed all day among all classes, and it is the general theme of conversation.

CHICAGO.

The Republic Insurance Company and Its Policy-Holders—The Shooting of Col. Grosvenor.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—There is much feeling and discussion here in relation to the conduct of the Republic Insurance Company of this city, the Executive Board of which met a few days after the fire, and resolved that they could pay twenty-five cents on the dollar and disband. It is now claimed by sufferers, and the fact is proved by their published statements, that they were abundantly able to pay all their losses, and have a portion of the capital left. Its capital stock and available resources amounted to nearly $5,000,000, its losses to less than $3,000,000; twenty per cent. of its capital was paid in, the remainder was in the shape of notes of its stockholders, secured by the deposit of bonds and mortgages, which can and will be collected. The object of the action of the Executive Board, it is asserted, was to avoid the disagreeable necessity of calling upon the stockholders for about sixty per cent. of their notes. They were willing to pay over their cash on hand, but not to touch their four millions of capital loaned to the stockholders, whose notes and securities the company hold. The policy-holders, I understand, have refused to accept the proposed twenty-five per cent., and demand full payment. To the honor of several stockholders it should be said that they condemn the action of the Executive Board, and have voluntarily paid up their obligations in full. All who decline to follow their example will be compelled by law to do it. When the Republic has discharged its losses by the fire it will still have $2 000,000 of capital.

There is considerable excitement today over the killing of Col. GROSVENOR by the sentry at Chicago University, and opinions differ as to the conduct of the sentry. It is very evident that young TREAT thought he was performing his strict duty. He is a young man of most excellent character, and the fatal shot was his first effort to discharge a gun. The Coroner commenced taking testimony today. After examining a few witnesses the inquest was adjourned until to-morrow. Nothing was elicited essentially different from the facts stated in the dispatch of yesterday.

J. H. MCVICKER announces that he will rebuild his theatre in a style equal to the one destroyed. The Relief Committees made their reports last evening. They show a favorable condition of affairs. The Employment Society reports that the demand for laborers is in excess of the supply. The Health Committee reports that the health of the city is fair, though there has been some increase in diarrhœa and dysentery within the past few days. The demand for transportation to leave the city is now small. The Department for the Distribution of Supplies is in a gratifying condition.

Daring Burglary of an Express-Car.

CAIRO, Ill., Oct. 22.—At Union City, Tenn., last night, while the passengers of a Mobile and Ohio Railroad train were at supper, three men jumped on the engine and ran the train back on the track for two miles, while two others entered the express-car and robbed the safe of about $4,000. The messenger was at supper, and had left one man on guard, who was overpowered by the robbers. The thieves escaped.

Shocking Accident—A Child Four Years Old Killed.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Early last evening, CHARLES GIDDINGS, while chipping splinters from a shed with a sharp jack-knife, suddenly dropped his hand containing the knife to his side. By his side, unbeknown to him, stood CARLOTTA MOORE, daughter of Dr. MOORE, aged four years. The blade of the knife struck her throat, severing the carotid artery, and in eight minutes she was dead.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Prince NAPOLEON landed at Ajaccio yesterday. No demonstration was made.

MADRID, Oct. 22.—It is rumored that a project is afoot of a new Ministerial combination, in which SAGASTA, ZORILLA, and an influential Democrat, are included.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A report comes from Constantinople that the Turkish Government intends to appropriate the revenues of the mosques.

THE COLORED PEOPLE.

National Convention in Columbia, S. C.—Addresses to the American People.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 22.—The National Colored Convention met in Columbia on Wednesday. Lieut.-Gov. RANSIER, of South Carolina, being permanent President. On Thursday resolutions indorsing President GRANT'S Administration were introduced, and referred Resolutions were adopted advocating the preservation of the reconstructed State Governments and existing laws, and the continuance in power of the Republican Party; also indorsing those Republicans who have come to the South from the North, and deprecating an attack upon any class within the Republican ranks. Resolutions were introduced on Friday deprecating emigration to Liberia. Congressman ELLIOTT, of South Carolina, submitted yesterday an address to the American people. It asks for more perfect recognition of the colored people in the workshops and all other industrial pursuits, that they may become proficient in mechanical arts, and thereby protect skilled artisans from having to compete with workmen of inferior capability, and asks from Congress aid for the education of the poor children of the South.

It demands one standard of duty or policy for all citizens; it affirms that the colored people have no desire to strike a line of action not common to the whole people, and concludes with a hope for a speedy abolition of slavery in every part of the world.

A Man Murdered in Norwich, Conn.—The Culprit Under Arrest.

NORWICH, Conn., Oct. 22.—ALEXANDER MONTGOMERY and WILLIAM H. COOLEY, employes of a livery-stable, had a trifling dispute this afternoon about hitching up a team. About an hour afterward COOLEY lay in a wagon reading when MONTGOMERY came up and hit him on the temple with the side of an ax, killing him instantly. The murderer is only eighteen years old. After the deed he manifested great agony, and said he had no intention of murder. When he found that COOLEY could not be resuscitated, he gave himself up to the Police.

THE CREEK NATION.

A Settlement of their Troubles Effected—Samuel Checote Declared Chief.

Mr. J. S. ATKINSON, who has just returned to St. Louis from the Creek Agency, reports that the troubles between the two factions in the Creek Nation, which came near ending in bloodshed, have been settled. The Republican says:

"The feud grew out of an election for Chief of the nation. SAMUEL CHECOTE, the former Chief, has been declared re-elected. His competitor was OC-TER-SUS-HARGO, popularly known as "Sands." The Checote party voted by ballot, while the Sands party voted by counting heads, according to the ancient custom of the tribe. Both parties claimed the election, and the adherents of each Chief rushed to arms to assert their respective claims by force. Okmulgee, the capital of the nation, was filled with armed men, ready to embroil their hands in each other's blood. The danger was imminent, but a conflict was happily avoided by the appearance of the United States agent of the Creeks, Mr. F. LYON, who resides at the Creek Agency, about twenty-five miles distant from Okmulgee. Mr. LYON went to work energetically, calling the leaders of both parties together. He succeeded in pacifying them, and the effusion of blood was thereby avoided. The Creek Convention, which adjourned on Saturday last until the 15th of November, declared that CHECOTE was elected by about 300 majority. The Sands party, who had possession of the Court-house, thereupon withdrew their opposition. It seems that SANDS wanted to come under the old law of the "realm," while the Checote party adhered to the new Constitution. MI-KO-HUT-KEE was declared elected second Chief. The feud between these factions has lasted many years. SANDS succeeded OC-TER-SUS-HARGO, the Chief of the loyal Creeks, who was buried at Leavenworth during the war. He claims that he has been defrauded out of his rights by the Checote party. SANDS headed the treaty party and signed the treaty between the Creeks and the United States at Washington in 1866, which renewed all the rights they now possess. But in the several contests for supremacy he was beaten by his antagonist, CHECOTE. Both these Chiefs made a representation of these claims to Col. ROBERT CAMPBELL and JOHN D. LANG, of the Indian Commission, last Fall, but these gentlemen advised forbearance, and to await the submission of their claims to a popular election by their people."

THE NEW GOLD FIELD.

Further Particulars of the Excitement at Fort Garry—Government Employes Stopping Work to Seek Gold.

From the St. Paul (Minn.) Press, Oct. 19.

Mr. LINDSAY D. SIMMS, of Fort Garry, reached St. Paul last evening from Manitoba, and he brings the interesting information that intense excitement prevailed at Winnipeg over recent gold discoveries at Lake Shabondawan. Many specimens of gold dust, nuggets, and gold-bearing quartz had been brought to Fort Garry, and so confident were the people in general that a new Eldorado of unsurpassed richness had been discovered, that hundreds at once repaired to the scene of the discoveries, and the latest information from that region has not only fully confirmed all previous reports, but even exaggerated them to the extent of placing them among the richest mineral deposits in the world, outranking even California and Australia.

The Government of the Dominion of Canada is engaged in establishing a road through the country between Fort William, on Thunder Bay, and the settlements on the Red River Valley, but all work on this thoroughfare has been entirely suspended, the workmen, to the number of several hundred, having dropped their shovels, picks and axes, and emigrated in a body to the gold-fields, where they were each washing out with their hands $4 a day and upward. News of their remarkable success in finding gold in paying quantities had infected the sober citizens of Winnipeg, and the prospects seemed to be that even the fears of a Fenian raid from Pembina would be forgotten in the general desire to revel among the golden sands of the Shabondawan.

There would seem to be some foundation for these reports, for the locality mentioned is in the midst of one of the richest argentiferous regions on the continent. The early explorers of a route through the British Possessions discovered gold and silver in this vicinity, and later investigations have shown that vast deposits of minerals are to be found along both shores of the great lake. Lake Shabondawan lies about forty miles due west from Fort William, and at least four hundred miles from Fort Garry. This lake is only about ten miles in length, and but two or three in width, and forms one of many small bodies of water in that section. It is bounded on the south and west by a mountainous and broken country, through which flow several small and rapid streams.

Lake Shabondawan is but a short distance from Silver Islet, in Lake Superior, said to be the richest silver mine in the world, and not over 150 miles distant from the copper mines of Ontonagon. There are, therefore, reasonable grounds for believing that these discoveries may prove to be as valuable as they are reported, and that the extensive prospecting of experienced gold-hunters which is sure to follow may yet develop mineral resources north of Lake Superior as vast as those which have attracted hundreds of thousands of people to the western slopes of America and the islands of the Pacific.

ENGLISH AFFAIRS.

The Social Science Congress—Tory Influence—Mr. Ruskin's Model Kings—The Republican Idea—Birmingham Radicalism—The Irish Question—A New Church—England's Position—Social Warfare—Stray Notes.

From a Special Correspondent.

MALVERN, England, Saturday, Oct. 7, 1871.

The Social Science Congress is in session this week at Leeds, under the Presidency of Sir JOHN PACKINGTON, a Tory Baronet, who was a member of Mr. DISRAELI'S Cabinet. Sir JOHN'S inaugural address was devoted to the education question, the most important and the most difficult of those with which England is now grappling. A fight is going on everywhere for the possession or control of the schools. The religious question is very troublesome, for every sect wants its own tenets taught or none; and the large body of secularists, and still larger of indifferentists, want none. "The question of compulsory attendance," Sir JOHN said:

"Was novel, difficult and all-important; but it was indispensable that the attempt be made. And the question of technical education is one that cannot wait. The enemy was at the gate, not in the shape of fleets or armies, but in the shape of a rivalry with manufactures and trade, in which, if we failed to maintain the position we had hitherto held, our national prosperity would be undermined, and England's wealth, power and greatness would be a thing of the past. The train was behind time, and if the guard cannot recover his lost ground, there must be a collision, in comparison with which the late prostration of unhappy France would be as nothing. The depression of France would be ephemeral—the ruin of England would be enduring. Skilled workmen, comparing their position with that of skilled workmen in other countries, became dissatisfied; and there were not wanting men who devoted themselves to attempting to inspire the minds of the working classes with feelings of discontent and disaffection, and so to make them instruments for the accomplishment of revolutionary objects. The question of the workman's home was a very serious one; it involved not only the discomfort and discontent of the parent, but the physical and intellectual inferiority of the child. The self-help of the people would no doubt do much to ameliorate their position, but it could not do all. The Government had the necessary information; let them act upon it."

TORY INFLUENCE.

You may have noticed that the most zealous leaders in social reform in England are Tories. Mr. RUSKIN, who is giving time, labor and money to the work of making England intelligent, artistic and beautiful forever, is a rank Tory, as he has just declared in a bit of very racy autobiography. He learned his Toryism, he says, from the two authors he chiefly read in his childhood, SCOTT and HOMER, in POPE'S translation—the Toryism of "A most sincere love of kings, and dislike of everybody who attempted to disobey them. Only, both by HOMER and SCOTT, I was taught strange ideas about kings, which I find, for the present, much obsolete; for I perceived that both the author of the Iliad and the author of Waverley made their kings, or king-loving persons, do harder work than anybody else. Tydides or Idomeneus always killed twenty Trojans to other people's one, and Redgauntlet speared more salmon than any of the Solway fishermen, and—which was particularly a subject of admiration to me—I observed that they not only did more, but in proportion to their doings, got less than other people—nay, that the best of them were even ready to govern for nothing, and let their followers divide any quantity of spoil or profit. Of late it has seemed to me that the idea of a King has become exactly the contrary of this, and that it has been supposed the duty of superior persons generally to do less, and to get more, than anybody else; so that it was, perhaps, quite as well that in those early days my contemplation of existant kingship was a very distant one, and my childish eyes wholly unacquainted with the splendor of courts."

Traveling with his father and mother in a post-chaise all over England and Wales, and a large part of Scotland, the land of his nativity, in the good old times before railways, and when a merchant spent two or three months a year in visiting his customers and getting orders, he saw all the fine scenery of the country, and also all the finest pictures. His father was a rare judge of paintings, and

"Wherever there was a gallery to be seen, we stopped at the nearest town for the night; and in reverentest manner I thus saw nearly all the noblemen's houses in England; not, indeed, myself at that age caring for the pictures, but much for castles and ruins, feeling more and more, as I grew older, the healthy delight of uncoveteous admiration, and perceiving, as soon as I could perceive any political truth at all, that it was probably much happier to live in a small house, and have Warwick Castle to be astonished at, than to live in Warwick Castle, and have nothing to be astonished at; but that, at all events, it would not make Brunswick-square in the least more pleasantly habitable to pull Warwick Castle down. And at this day, though I have kind invitations enough to visit America, I could not, even for a couple of months, live in a country so miserable as to possess no castles. Nevertheless, having formed my notion of Kinghood chiefly from the Fitz-James of the Lady of the Lake, and of noblesse from the Douglas there and the Douglas in Marmion, a painful wonder soon arose in my child-mind, why the castles should now be always empty. Tantallon was there, but no Archibald of Angus; Stirling, but no Knight of Snowdoun. The galleries and gardens of England were beautiful to see; but his Lordship and her Ladyship were always in town, said the house-keeper and gardeners. Deep yearning took hold of me for a kind of 'Restoration,' which I began slowly to feel that Charles II. had not altogether effected, though I always wore a gilded oak-apple very reverently in my button-hole on the 29th of May. It seemed to me that Charles II's Restoration had been, as compared with the Restoration I wanted, much as that gilded oak-apple to a real apple. And as I grew older, the desire for red pippins instead of brown ones, and living kings instead of dead ones, appeared to me rational as well as romantic; and gradually it had become the main purpose of my life to grow pippins, and its chief hope to see kings."

The prospect of seeing any Kings of Mr. RUSKIN'S pattern in England is not a very hopeful one, and the next best thing may be for him to join the Republican associations which are springing up in most of the large towns in England.

THE REPUBLICAN IDEA.

The Republicans, however, are not quite decided on entirely dispensing with Kings. Mr. GEORGE POTTER is willing to tolerate them a while longer, if they will behave themselves, live economically, and set as good examples of the domestic virtues as her Majesty the Queen, who is said to have been so prudent as already to have laid up five millions sterling against a rainy day. But why a professed Republican should be in favor of a King Log—a merely ornamental hereditary make believe—I do not quite see, when he says:

"It is against nature for the poor to be in love with a costly administration of public affairs. The comparison in this respect between England and America is so favorable to the latter, that the wonder is that the English working-men should have remained so long content to admire the advantages of Brother Jonathan under a Republic without desiring to share in them."

But the maintenance of a hereditary presidency of the English Republic, Mr. POTTER thinks, depends upon the conduct of their apparent, and certain measures relating to "the Sovereign and the Royal Family, the House of Lords, the Parliamentary Suffrage and Electoral Districts, the Established Church, the Land Question, and the Claims of the People." And he advocates material reduction in the civil list, the readjustment of electoral districts, the disestablishment and disendowment of the English Church, reform in the tenure of land, and the removal of the obstacles which exclude workingmen from Parliament.

BIRMINGHAM RADICALISM.

The Birmingham Republican Club has been refused the use of the Town Hall for a lecture, by Mr. BRADLAUGH, on "The Impeachment of the House of Brunswick," the materials of which may have been taken from THACKERAY'S Four Georges, and other authentic histories. This lecture has been delivered in many of the towns of England, in halls when they could be had, and sometimes in the open air. The Club is indignant at the refusal of the Town Hall, and the President said "it was a miserable thing to think that the fashionable town of Brighton was giving its Town Hall for the lecture, and that old Radical Birmingham refused its Town Hall."

THE IRISH QUESTION.

Ireland is not actually a Republic, but would like to be. Mr. BUTT, Q. C., was returned to Parliament, from Limerick, without opposition, as an advocate for the Government. Mr. GLADSTONE met this challenge in his speech at Aberdeen, by saying that he should be happy to discuss the matter with Mr. BUTT in the House, but that, whatever the arguments might be, the Union was a fixed fact, and could never be abolished. It must and shall be preserved. So Mr. BUTT must argue against a foregone conclusion. The Nationalist papers are very violent in denouncing this "declaration of war against Ireland." The Weekly News says:

"A Scotch audience were the first to hear from Mr. GLADSTONE'S lips the declarations which stamp him as the enemy of the people of Ireland. Bitter, untruthful, and malicious, his speech may be taken as a certain indication that from him, at least, the people of Ireland need look neither for sympathy nor justice, and that the sooner they make up their minds to treat him as a relentless opponent the better. So be it; we accept the conclusion forced on us, and the Irish people will not shrink from the obligations it entails. From this time forward we are done with Gladstoneism in Ireland; from this time forward a new test is imposed on the candidates for Parliamentary honors in Ireland; and that test is firm and unyielding opposition to the statesman who has proclaimed with so much insulting emphasis his antagonism to the will of the Irish nation."

"And this," says an English Liberal journal, "about a statesman who, with unwearied energy and great abilities, passed the Irish Church and Irish Land bills! The force of political ingratitude could no further go."

"Ireland," says the Irishman, "has the four greatest grievances that can afflict a State—absenteeism of liberty, absenteeism of legislators, absenteeism of proprietors, and (consequent) absenteeism of national vigor and prosperity. Ireland has demanded from the Imperial Parliament, and the Imperial Parliament has refused, home rule, which means relief from these four absenteeisms, which exhaust and degrade her."

What Mr. BUTT demands for Ireland is simply a local Government, like those of the States in the American Union, while the Imperial Parliament should have about the same powers as the American Congress, a demand Americans can hardly consider unreasonable.

A NEW CHURCH.

Rev. CHARLES VOYSEY, who was some time since tried and condemned for heresy, which he had been industriously preaching and writing for years, while holding a living in the Established Church, has commenced to found a new church of his own in London. His first service was at St. George's Hall, in Regent-street, last Sunday. A very large audience assembled to listen to his exposition of a movement which "aspires to make freedom of conscience a basis of union for all mankind." Mr. VOYSEY read the service out of a revised prayer book, stripped of every sentence which would prevent it harmonizing with a pure Theism. You can imagine the Apostles, and Nicene creeds thus expurgated. The Litany and communion services are entirely omitted. The Gloria Patri, Te Deum, Doxology, &c., are very much shortened. The Psalms are carefully expurgated. The new litany contains the following beseechment:

"That it may please Thee to help all literary persons and editors of the public press, that they may use all their powers in the cause of truth and righteousness, and rise above the praise and blame of men."

In his sermon the reverend gentleman denounced most of the essential and distinctive doctrines of the Christian faith with great vehemence. There is nothing new about all this, except the curious way of doing it; first as a beneficed clergymen, and now using an expurgated Bible and prayer-book, A monotheistic apostle ought to be more original.

ENGLAND'S POSITION.

I see that an English farmer who lives near Dorking, has written to a friend in America that the whole story about the Battle of Dorking is a stupid hoax. He lives there, and knows that nothing of the sort has happened. This may be so, as well as the accounts of killed, wounded and missing in the late campaign. But the English Press is nettled every now and then by the speculations of German writers, who seem to take a special pleasure in telling them that England is a declining Venice—that there are now only two great Powers in Europe—that there is no alternative for England but to ally herself to Germany or to perish with her antiquated prejudices and obsolete institutions. In all this there is only one comfort. In a war with Germany, England or any other country can be sure of the alliance of France. Germany is bound over to keep the peace in that penalty. Until France is either utterly destroyed or satisfied, Germany cannot go to war with any great Power, unless she can secure an alliance that will balance France. And in this state of things we may hope for peace until France is ready to make war on her own account. Waiting for that, let us hope that all the great Powers will find a way of securing the peace of Europe by other means than the bloated armaments that are eating up the life of nations. Do I hope it? I am sorry to say, not much. It looks as if things would be worse in this world than they ever have been before they are better.

SOCIAL WARFARE.

Our social wars are increasing in extent and intensity. Half this country is now engaged in strikes, and if the working men adopt the advice of Prof. BEESLEY, and combine all trades in one great trades' union, and all strike at once, the result may be imagined. Suppose they strike for the shortest time and the highest wages. English manufacturers can live only on one condition—the ability to compete with all the rest of the world. Destroy that ability, and English trade is done for, and her capital would be transferred to other countries, the largest share probably to America. If the Government owned all the mines, the proprietors of the soil having no claim to what lies below the surface, it might be managed; for the mines might be leased to capitalists on such conditions that labor would have its equitable rewards. But with hundreds of independent proprietors subject to no law but that of free competition in supply and demand, regulation seems impossible. The man who has only his labor to sell must take what he can get. If he combines with his fellows he gains little and risks every thing. He is robbed by the truck system to an extent of which you in America, I trust, have no conception. In Shetland the fishermen work under this system and are always in debt to their employers. They never see money; if by any accident a man gets a pound or two he hides it, for fear its possession may damage him with the masters. Such a system paralyses effort, and is making paupers of the whole population. And this system is spread more or less over the country, making the poor slaves of the class next above them. They are always in debt, and always dependent upon their creditors. They must pay whatever price is asked, and so are robbed in both wages and prices, in quality and quantity. It needs a social science congress of the whole nation to grapple with such a net-work of social evils.

STRAY NOTES.

The English printers have a new grievance. They have long been under-worked by the more economical Scotchmen, who are content "to cultivate literature on a little oat-meal," and now English books are printed in Germany and sent here in sheets to be bound. The reason is this: Printing has been made a matter of technical education in Germany and labor is cheaper there than in England....The Congress of Miners now in session at Merthyr Tydvil has come to one important resolution. It is to raise a fund to promote the election of miners to Parliament, and pay them for their services. If the other trades follow this example, the question of working-men representation will soon be decided in the affirmative.... I may have written to you that the Earl and Countess of DUNRAVEN were amoung our distinguished Malvern visitors. I had not seen his lordship for two years, during which time he had married a young and beautiful niece of the Earl of SHREWSBURY. They have been on the Continent, chiefly at Rome, the past year, and the Earl, returning to England in feeble health, was advised by his physicians to come to Malvern. I was shocked to see him so changed, and knew he was past all help. He died last evening. I saw him on Tuesday, as he returned from a drive, but so weak that he had to be carried from his carriage to his room. He rose as usual yesterday, wrote his letters, dined with the family at 2 o'clock, then rested a while on the sofa, but was perceptibly weaker. Feeling this, he looked over his will and added some codicils. The doctor was sent for, and found his pulse more feeble. His chaplain, Rev. Mr. FLANIGAN, then gave him the last sacraments. A few moments before he died, when they were trying to keep him up with stimulants, he said: "What is the use of giving me brandy and water, just to keep me in this world ten minutes longer?" Earl DUNRAVEN was a man of singular moral courage. He succeeded Archbishop WHATELEY as President of the London Mesmeric Infirmary; he was a convert to the Roman Catholic faith; and he printed his own and his son, Lord ADARE'S, experiences of the phenomena of Spiritualism, some notice of which, with his Lordship's permission, I sent you. Lord ADARE, who has just returned from a trip to New-York, is now Earl of DUNRAVEN....The father of Mr. JOHN GOUGH, the temperance orator, has just died at London, at the age of ninety-four. Mr. JOHN SCOTT, the celebrated trainer has died at seventy-seven, and WM. SMITH has died at the Bethnal Green Workhouse, where he has been an inmate for seventy-six years, at the age of one hundred and three years. What a life to live, and what a long one!

MONADNOCK.

THE LATE EMPIRE.

Sale of the Empress Eugenie's Personal Effects.

Paris (Oct. 7) Correspondence of the London Daily News.

In passing by the new galleries of the Louvre, facing the quay, I heard the tinkle of a bell, and the voice of a crier inviting the public to come in and buy what remained to be sold of the Empress EUGENIE'S personal effects. Accepting the invitation, I entered the little court, standing in the midst of the Imperial stables. Another bell-ringer was at the door of the manége where M. BUCHON used to give the Prince Imperial riding lessons. It is a long-vaulted chamber, with a sanded floor. Its even temperature was the reason why it was chosen for the equestrian practice of the boy whom prefets were bound to designate at public banquets "the hope of France." Though all the steeds have long since disappeared from the Louvre stables a faint smell of horse-litter floated through the air. The manége was last used by JULES FERRY and ROCHEFORT, who were accustomed to take riding lessons in it during the siege. But on the occasion to which I now particularly refer it was occupied by old clothes-sellers of both sexes, curiosity dealers, a few friends of the fallen dynasty whose faces I had often seen grouped around the throne of the Salle des Etats, some dirty students, a reporter of the Gaulois, attracted, like myself, by the noise of the bell; and a sprinkling of those antiquated gentlemen in white gaiters who pass their lives in hovering about the book-stands on the parapet of the Quay Voltaire and crossing and recrossing the Pont des Arts. The auctioneer was a self-sufficient sort of common-place bourgeois. He did his best to be jocular at the expense of fallen greatness. In liquidating the Imperial effects he was assisted by an old clerk, two men wearing threadbare Imperial liveries, and a strong-voiced valuer, who, contrary to the traditions of Paris auctioneers, puffed the wares he wanted to vend. To some he attempted to give a historical value. Each article he seemed to think was worth its weight in gold, if only as a relic. The dresses, laces, shawls, and mantles, had been disposed of on a previous day; and it was now the turn of the underclothing and "intimate house linen" to be liquidated. Pillow-cases of fine cambric—so fine that one wonders how they supported the elaborate embroideries and deep real lace borders—were hotly contested for by a "petite dame," a shabby Jew of the Rue des Victoires, and a party of buyers belonging, I should say, to the Quartier Breda. The little lady carried off a dozen. It "poses" one, she cried, tittering as she spoke, to press the pillow on which an imperial head reposed. The cypher E happened to stand for her name, which she volunteered to tell one of the old friends of the fallen dynasty was EULALIE. As for the crown under it, ma foi, she was just as worthy to wear it as any one else. The old friend was not loth to cultivate the acquaintance of the sparkling fair one. He assented to this proposition, and volunteered to hold a pillow-case which the auctioneer had allowed her to take. The toweling was endless. Bundle after bundle of fine Saxony damask napkins, all with the E, the crown, the eagle, the busy Carlovingian bee, and a profusion of laurel wreaths, were handed round the vaulted room to be examined by bidders and then disposed of. Some breakfast-table napery, the present of a King, now Emperor WILLIAM'S first feudatory, was bought by one of the former habitués of of the Salle des Etats. He got it cheap. One of the old gentlemen, who happened to be deaf, was furious when he found that he might have had the lot at 130 francs. I do not know why the brokers and students were so jocose when an inside garment was held up by two dainty little sleeves and the public asked to examine it as a fair specimen of the large bale from which it was drawn at hazard. American modesty cannot bring itself to name this garment any more than it can to speak of a shirt. If PAUL DE CASSAGNAC were as good as his oft-repeated oath, he would have run his sword-cane through the profane auctioneer's showman who held the article in question up to be scoffed at by the males and admired by the women. French hands turn out under-clothing in a way none other can. Give a Rue de la Paix lingère fine Irish linen, Valenciennes lace and a Lorraine embroiderer to execute her ideas, and she will get up a trousseau so natty, pretty, and dainty that a Hottentot Venus would be tempted to exchange her bracelets and colored garters for it. In France, where the bump of veneration is depressed and modesty a weak virtue, they do not mind setting up to public auction body linen. A Baron whom I know eats salt fish on Fridays, and aims at a character for piety and respectability of behavior; yet I saw him preside in his chateau at the sale of his defunct mother's under-clothing, and smile at the coarse remarks of peasants who were disputing for her night dresses. None of his aristocratic neighbors thought the worse of him. I confess that I felt shocked at what seemed to me a want of filial respect. But nobody could understand why body linen should not be put up to auction with other assets, and when the articles were held up to view, how could one expect that country louts would not make merry in their rough way about them? I make this digression to guard against English persons, sympathising with the Imperial exiles, from feeling angry with M. THIERS for what may seem to them a profane action. When M. THIERS dies his shirts and hosiery will be disposed of by auction without any ceremony by his nearest of kin. There were peignoirs and dressing gowns, clearly furnished by CHAPON, the famous ladies' outfitter in the Rue de la Paix, and all wonderfully elegant, but dusty and somewhat blue-moulded. The stockings of thread, silk and Shetland wool were of gossamer lightness. An infinity of bath and toilet sponges were knocked down at a hundred francs. They were all of the best quality. The little lady said she would have been the purchaser if the auctioneer had guaranteed that he was selling her something which had actually passed through the Empress' hands. As for the boots and slippers, they justified the eulogiums passed by MM. FRANC and LOCKREY in their report on Parisian shoemakers. Then there were, the ladies thought, delicious things in the way of petticoats, flannel bustles, robes de chambre, sorties de bain, and woolen wraps. Some baby's robes, which, according to the saleman's legend, belonged to the Prince Imperial's layette, were bought by a Russian lady. A snuffy purchaser near me shook her head incredulously at those belongings of Imperial infancy. They were sumptuously got up, she admitted, but nothing would convince her that they did not belong to some distressed bourgeoise's layette, and were not palmed off by the auctioneer to enhance their price, as having been worn by the Prince, at whose birth, seventeen years ago, official France went into the most excessive demonstrations of delight that ever hailed the advent of a royal child on our planet.

An Imperial Appeal to the Czar.

The new Bonapartist paper, L'Ordre, publishes the following letter, written by the Empress EUGENIE to the Emperor of Russia after the disaster of Sedan.

HASTINGS, Sept. 13, 1870.

SIRE: A fugitive from my country, I now write to your Majesty. If I had a few days since, when the destinies of France were still in the hands of the authority constituted by the Emperor, taken the same step, I should, perhaps, have appeared in the eyes of your Majesty as entertaining doubts of the real strength of my country. The last events give me liberty to act, and I may appeal to your Majesty's heart. If I have rightly understood the reports made by our Ambassador, General FLEURY, your Majesty would a priori repudiate the ultimate dismemberment of France. Sire, fate has been against us; the Emperor is a prisoner and is maligned. Another Government has undertaken the task which we considered it was our duty to perform, I now beseech your Majesty to use your influence to bring about the conclusion of an honorable and lasting peace when the right moment shall come. May France find in your Majesty, whatever may be its Government, the same disposition which you have displayed toward us in those bitter trials! Such is the prayer I address to you. I beg your Majesty, therefore, to keep this communication secret, which your generous spirit will readily understand, and to which I am impelled by the recollection of your Majesty's sojourn in Paris."

An American Negotiator.

A Swiss correspondent of the Siècle, writing from Vevey on Oct. 2, in relation to the negotiations in progress between Prince NAPOLEON, then a resident of that place, and the Ex-Emperor, says: "The Imperial party has its Egeria Baroness DE ——, an American, and the widow of an Italian, who was conspicuous in the latest balls given under the Empire. She is intrusted with the most delicate and difficult missions. It is a notorious fact that during the war she made several journeys to the Prussian camp, and that she brought to BISMARCK the famous doctor who succeeded in making BOURBAKI leave Metz. She is now charged with secret missions in Paris, where M. PIETRE dares not show himself too openly."

THE LOST LAKE STEAMER.

Two of the Passengers of the Lake Superior Propeller Coburn—Major William Atwood and Indian Agent Richard M. Smith.

Among the persons who are known to have been on the steamer Coburn, which was lost on Lake Huron, was WILLIAM ATWOOD, by brevet a Major in the volunteer service, and by regular rank First Lieutenant Twenty-first Infantry, United States Army, and aide of Gen. COOKE. He had been stationed in Detroit for a year and a half, and had been up the lakes attending a Court-martial. The Detroit Post of Saturday says:

There have been hopes entertained by the friends of Capt. ATWOOD, of this city, that he might possibly be among the survivors of the Coburn, but these hopes seem destined to be shattered. One report states that the Lieutenant was hard at work during the night previous to the going down of the ill-fated ship, aiding the men in throwing the cargo into the sea, and from his exertion became exceedingly exhausted, so much so that he laid down in the Captain's room, where, only a few minutes before the sinking of the ship, he was seen by those who escaped. Another report was that he was seen near the ship's side at the time when the third boat was about putting off, and from this some have thought that he may have attempted to have boarded the last boat (which it is said was afterward swamped.) Capt. ATWOOD had many friends and a wide circle of acquaintance in this city. His army record was a most excellent one, and dates from the beginning of the war. He first entered the Independent Pennsylvania Battery, which was organized in Pittsburg, was engaged in active service throughout the war, and was in many of the prominent battles. Before the close of the war he was made a Captain in the volunteer force with the brevet rank of Major. He entered the regular army in March, 1866, being attached to the Nineteenth Infantry. In the month of July, 1867, he was made Second Lieutenant, and promoted to the place of First Lieutenant during the year 1869. In December, 1870, he was assigned to the Twenty-first United States Infantry, stationed in Detroit, in which position he has been since then. Captain ATWOOD was unmarried, but leaves a mother and brother, both of whom are now living in Pittsburg, of which city we believe Lieutenant ATWOOD was a native. Among others on board the Coburn was also RICHARD M. SMITH, Indian Agent, well-known to many residents of Detroit, and who for a long time has been connected with the Indian agency, both as head clerk and agent as well. He formerly resided at Penn Yann, New-York, and moved to Detroit nearly eighteen years ago. He was clerk under LEACH, LONG, BROCKWAY and others, in the interior, acting as agent, and then displaced, but being finally appointed agent in June last, succeeding to that position before filled by GEO. M. BRADLEY, who, it will be remembered, was found dead at the Harlem Depot, in New-York, last Summer. Mr. SMITH was an honest, upright and exceedingly energetic and faithful man and officer. He was most methodical in all details relating to the business of his department, and was considered an excellent accountant, and so thoroughly did he acquaint himself with all that appertained to the various departments, that he became an absolute necessity to the officers appointed under each administration, and was accordingly retained in the clerkship regardless of whatever political bias might have originally existed. His integrity was one of his strong characters, and was the cause of his being on board the Coburn. He had a large amount of money in his possession for the purpose of paying off the Indians. His duties required him to visit Lake Michigan ports, but he stated to a friend at the Sault last week that the season was getting so late, and the lake so rough, that he did not wish to take all the funds in his possession to Lake Michigan. He therefore determined to bring them to Detroit, and go from here with such small amounts as might be required at the points to be visited. Hence he sailed on the Coburn, and it is too evident that he went down with her. Mrs. SMITH retained her residence in Penn-Yann. As it has been Mr. SMITH'S custom to visit his home during a part of each Winter, he has never brought his family away from that place. Mrs. SMITH also used to visit here in the Summer and Fall, and went with him on his last trip, and was on board the Coburn at the time of the disaster.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Events and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—7 P. M.—The highest barometer continues in the South Atlantic States, and the lowest is probably north of Lake Ontario. The pressure has very generally fallen since Saturday afternoon. Cloudiness has increased with occasional light rain at the Gulf stations, and threatening weather in the valleys of the Ohio and Lower Mississippi. The temperature has very generally risen, especially in the Middle and Eastern States. Brisk westerly winds are now reported on the lakes; fresh easterly winds in the Gulf States, and southerly winds throughout the Mississippi Valley.

PROBABILITIES.

The barometer will probably continue to fall on Monday throughout the Atlantic States, and threatening weather extend from the Blue Ridge westward; easterly winds, possibly with rain, from lower Florida to North Carolina; partially cloudy and warm weather in the Middle and Eastern States, and prevailing westerly winds from New-England to Wisconsin.

A Matter for Inquiry.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I am a resident of the Fifteenth Ward, Second District. The voters in this district should register in Eleventh-street, near Sixth-avenue, south side. I went there on the evening of the day appointed for registration, and found the place closed. This morning, thought I would stop in and see the list of those who had so registered. The gentleman in charge of the store told me there was no list there, the register having been taken down the day after, and had not been replaced; and was also informed that these registers (hard workers, poorly paid by Mr. HALL) were away about half the day. As there is much complaint as to their conduct, thought you would like to know about it, as your columns have of late been the channel of communication to the hungry public, who are fainting for honesty. Very respectfully,

A VOTER OF THE FIFTEENTH WARD,
Member of Young Men's Municipal Reform Association.

Progress of the Civil Service Commission—Outline of a Complete System Drawn—Tobacco Tax Modification Probable—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Civil Service Commission will not be embarrassed in its work by the opinion of the Attorney-General regarding the unconstitutionality of competitive examinations. It is conceded that the President, if he so chooses, has the power to make the selection of officers of all grades dependent upon the results of competitive or any other examinations. He can establish any system he pleases for the determination of appointmants vested by law or the Constitution in his own office, and he can extend the same rules through the entire civil service by his power in the formation of his Cabinet, because no Cabinet officer could retain his position for an instant who should refuse to apply any system in the interest of reform which the President should recommend, even though no action of Congress could force the same system upon him. Therefore, in making its recommendation to the President of rules to govern admission into the civil service, the commission, it is understood, will be guided by this view, which is in effect that the President is the sole potential executive power in this Government. If the opinion of the Attorney-General is sound, Congress cannot enforce a system of regulations for appointments in the civil service which shall restrict the constitutional right of selection vested in the appointing power. This is thought by some to be a stumbling block to reform. But it is the opinion of the Commissioners, and President GRANT has expressed the same view, that if a system is once well established and thoroughly tested with good results, and the approval of the people which such results would secure for it, no new Administration would dare overturn it in the interest of party politics. Of the work of the Commission thus far, it may be generally said that the outline of a system has been drawn, and the details are being wrought out day by day. The methods of procedure are somewhat the same as in a constitutional convention, where a subject is taken up, propositions submitted by the members are discussed, amended, adopted or laid aside, each subject being substantially concluded before it is left, but still subject to subsequent revision. Very positive progress has been made, and as the generalities of the question are crowded aside by the consideration of concrete practical propositions, difficulties disappear and the work grows easier, while the end may now be said to be in view. What officer, if any, should be exempt from the application of the regulations to be established has been under discussion much of the time for a few days past. A question which yet remains to be considered is the composition of the various examining boards, so that their efficiency and the thorough execution of the rules may be assured. Mr. CATTELL will join the Commission to-morrow, but Mr. MEDILL is not expected for the present.

THE TOBACCO TAX.

Supervisor Presbrey and Mr. Kimball, of the Internal Revenue Bureau, have returned from their second visit to Virginia, in connection with the tobacco interests. On this occasion they extended their conferences with manufacturers to Lynchburg and Danville, and the result will soon be apparent in action which will have a most important bearing on the tobacco tax and the interests of the trade generally. A thorough reform is needed, the chief features of which will probably be a uniform tax and the abolition of the bonded warehouse system. Commissioner DOUGLAS will consider this subject in his annual report, and his recommendations, whatever they shall be, will be the result of the very thorough investigation which he is giving to the subject.

PERSONAL.

Senator EDMUNDS and family have arrived, and occupy their residence for the Winter. Representative STARKWEATHER, of Connecticut, is at the Ebbitt House. Mr. CHAS. P. SHAW, of New-York; Gen. W. B. FRANKLIN, of Hartford, and Rev. W. C. LANGDON, of Florence, Italy, are at the Arlington. The President, accompanied by Mrs. GRANT, Gen. BABCOCK and Mr. and Mrs. CORBIN, of New-Jersey, returned to the White House this morning. Secretary ROBESON and Postmaster-General CRESWELL have also returned.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

THE JOINT WAR-CLAIM COMMISSION.

The rooms of the United States and British Commission have been neatly furnished and apartments designated for the Courts, the Commissioners and the Secretary. The Commission are now prepared for business, but the session will not be resumed until the 5th of November. In the meantime instructions and the necessary blanks will be furnished to all who may desire them.

EX-PAY-MASTER PAULDING.

In connection with the Hodge defalcations statements were recently made which do injustice to Major PAULDING, formerly Pay-master in the army, who, in 1866, was tried for an alleged violation of an order in having transferred his deposits from the First National Bank to the Merchants' National Bank, which institution soon thereafter failed, the Government losing the entire amount of money. Instead of having been tried as a defaulter he was, according to the finding of the Court, especially exonerated from having any personal or interested motive in making the transfer. Neither is it true that he was ever in the Penitentiary, nor did the Court's sentence so remand him. He was ordered to a military prison for a year, and was in Fort McHenry for three months, when be was released by order of Secretary STANTON. Had it been thought his action in the removal of his deposit was anything more than an error of judgment, it seems quite certain the penalty for the loss of $275,000 would have been something more than the one imposed, which was merely nominal confinement within the grounds of the garrison on parole. It was shown that he never used for private purposes a dollar of the $190,000,000 intrusted to him, and went out of office poorer than he was when he entered the service.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE BIBLE COMMENTARY: Being the Holy Bible, According to the Authorized Version, (A. D. 1611,) with an Explanatory and Critical Commentary and a Revision of the Translation, by Bishops and other Clergy of the Anglican Church. Edited by F. C. COOK, M. A., Canon of Exeter. Vol. I. New-York: CHARLES SCRIBNER & Co., No. 654 Broadway.

We give, in full, the title of this handsome volume, the first of a series of seven or eight volumes, which is in course of publication by the house of SCRIBNER & Co., in this City. When we say that the work is the same which has long been expected in Great Britain, and which is there known as The Speaker's Commentary, we have announced it still more distinctly, and, in part, described it. For it is well known among clergymen and Biblical students that, at the request of the Speaker of the House of Commons, and under the ecclesiastical guidance of the Archbishop of York, a body of the most accomplished scholars in the Church of England have been engaged in the preparation of a commentary on the Holy Scriptures. The fact that the scheme has been from the beginning under the patronage, or rather at the instance, of a layman, suggests that the work is first of all and most of all designed for the use of laymen. And this fact is one of great suggestiveness and importance.

For it is certainly true that, although some of the tendencies of the age in which we live are alarmingly materialistic, it is, nevertheless, and partly for that very reason, an age of great activity in Biblical science. Busy as our laymen are, in making money and in public affairs, they are not so busy but that they can find time to examine for themselves the foundations of their faith, when those foundations are rudely and vigorously assailed. And it is noteworthy that some of the most popular and successful publications of the last few years have been books belonging to the catalogue of theological, and even Christological, polemics.

Of course, then, if the layman is to study for himself, he must have at his command and in his own language, and at not too great a cost, the best apparatus for study. He must know what the keenest adversaries have been saying. He must know what the most learned, the most honest, the most devout scholars in the Church have to say in response. He must keep abreast of modern science and modern discovery. He must be able to prove all things, and to hold fast what is good. But he must also be able to do this with the least possible expenditure of toil and time. He cannot wade through dreary pages of speculation and conjecture. He must have the results of the best thought—the conclusions of the most trustworthy thinkers—and if no conclusions are as yet possible, he must know that also.

Now it is precisely these conditions which the present Commentary proposes to fulfill, and judging from the volume already issued, does so far fulfill that it is unquestionably the best work of the kind within the reach of the large body of readers whom we have described. The great army of Sunday-school teachers, for example, to whom BARNES' Notes have been, for years, so valuable an aid in the preparation for the class-room, will presently find that those Notes, devout and excellent as they are in spirit, and more than respectable as they are in scholarship, do not touch the tendencies of modern unbelief quite freshly enough nor quite at the right angle of attack. It is no disparagement to the great usefulness of Mr. BARNES' works to say that they may by and by be as obsolete as SCOTT and HENRY are. But here is a great work which is brought down to date—which has, for example, the valuable results of the ordnance survey in the peninsula of Sinai and in Palestine—and which, with the aid of some good Bible Dictionary will be an all-sufficient equipment even for the teachers of the higher Bible classes. If the volumes are too large to be brought into the class and read from bodily, it will be all the better; for those handy little books of BARNES' Notes have been to many a lazy teacher an irresistible temptation, and a too costly premium on laziness.

The very names of the eminent scholars engaged upon this Commentary are a sufficient assurance of its excellence. Such men as Dr. HOWSON, the Dean of Chester, widely known by his scholarly work concerning the life and epistles of St. Paul; Rev. GEORGE RAWLINSON, the very distinguished Orientalist; MANSEL, WESTCOTT, LIGHTFOOT, not to mention many others of greater or less note, are giving not their names only, but their hard work and ablest scholarship to the Commentary. As for honesty, the best scholarship of the Church of England is preeminently honest. It does not silence objectors with the voice of authority, nor dodge difficulties with the trickiness of the partisan; but it is jealous for the truth, and skillful in the statement of it, recognizing in the clear statement of truth a better refutation of error than could be furnished by any labored argument or special pleading.

There is a marked difference between this Commentary and those of old times, in the absence of any special moralizing and distinct and laborious enforcement of spiritual lessons. But it is none the worse on this account. The whole spirit of the book is so devout, and the suggestiveness of its expositions is so excellent, that we can easily afford to do without the formal "moral" and "improvement," which the bad will not, and the good need not, spend the time to read. On the whole, if we may judge the entire work by this specimen volume, it ought to have, and no doubt will have, a very wide circulation. Not only intelligent laymen, but clergymen of every sect, will feel the need of it, and profit by the use of it. Many a country parson, many a home missionary on the prairies, will recognize that this is what he sorely needs, and will pinch and sacrifice and try some new economy of his slender salary to purchase it. What if some wealthy layman, when he orders his own copy, should also order another copy for some needy minister who ought to have it and who cannot buy it?

Messrs. SCRIBNER & Co. have printed the book from duplicates of the English plates, on excellent paper, and putting the two volumes of the English edition into one. The volume, though necessarily large, is elegant and manageable, and offered at a very reasonable price.

SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY. By CHARLES HODGE, D. D., Professor in the Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J. Volume I. New-York: C. SCRIBNER & Co.

It is an interesting example of the reciprocity in literature which is continually exercised between Great Britain and America, that as Messrs. SCRIBNER & Co. receive from English publishers and introduce to the American public the great work which we have noticed above, so they give in return a work which, though not popular in its character, is recognized on both sides of the water as of standard and authoritative value. Dr. HODGE occupies a foremost place among the exponents of what is known in the Presbyterian Church as the Old School Theology, and as such has not only an American, but also a transatlantic reputation. This work, of which the publishers have given us the first volume in a style elegant enough for a book of belles-lettres, instead of a book of polemic theology, is the body of divinity which many generations of Princeton graduates have listened to with devout attention, as their great teacher has given it in his regular lectures. It is evident, however, that the lectures, though unchanged in the fundamental doctrine which they have so long maintained, have received continual modifications from year to year, as new phases of error have appeared, and new discoveries of truth, whether in natural or in Biblical science, have been made. Whether Dr. HODGE has grappled successfully with every form of heresy; whether the old school theology can meet and overthrow the new infidelity; whether what is heresy at Princeton may not really be orthodoxy in the long run, when history makes up its verdict on the old debates—these are questions on which, of course, the doctors will most widely disagree. But that Dr. HODGE does grapple with his enemy, and is watching for him in whatever novel form he may appear, is evident to any careful reader of these published lectures; and those who wish to know what old school orthodoxy is, may learn, as from its very oracle, by the study of these learned and able pages.

The characteristic of Dr. HODGE's theology is that it aims to be most rigidly and scrupulously Biblical. The appearance of the published lectures, therefore, at a time when Biblical study is receiving new stimulus and aid from the production of new and thorough commentaries, is especially timely. Both the friends and the enemies of the hyper-orthodox divinity will appeal to the Scriptures and to the ablest commentaries on the Scriptures for light and for authority. In another way, also, the appearance of these lectures is timely. Of course by the reunion of the two branches of the Presbyterian Church, neither the theology of Princeton, nor that of New-York, nor that of Auburn, became the established theology of that great ecclesiastical body. But as all these theological schools are now in the same family, there will be the greater reason for them, and for the disciples of them all, to become acquainted more and more intimately one with another. For these reasons, as well as for the intrinsic value of the book itself, and the great reputation of its excellent and venerable author, the theology of Dr. HODGE must have a large and permanent sale.

It is understood that two additional volumes are to follow. The present volume is occupied with introductory lectures, and with theology proper. The lectures which it contains touch more or less distinctly some of the vexed questions over which the conflict of ages has been waged; and even the non-professional student may be surprised to see how much of interest and practical value for himself, these old discussions may contain.

SHAKESPEARE'S COMEDY OF THE MERCHANT OF VENICE. Edited, with notes, by WILLIAM J. ROLFE, A. M., formerly Master of the High School, Cambridge, Mass. Square 16mo, pp. 168. New-York: HARPER & BROTHERS.

SHAKESPEARE'S COMEDY OF THE TEMPEST. By the same.

The preparation of this edition of two of SHAKESPEARE's finest comedies is due to the revival of Shakespearean literature of late years, and, perhaps, still more to the introduction of a critical study of the English language in high schools and colleges. Mr. ROLFE, the editor, is honorably known as the former head master of the High School at Cambridge, Massachusetts, and as the editor of the Boston edition of CRAIK's English of Shakespeare, an excellent book, to which he made some valuable additions, the nature and the quality of which showed his fitness for his present undertaking. Mr. ROLFE's plan includes a careful collation of the text with that of all the best editions, including the Cambridge edition, in which last are given all the various readings of the old folios and quartos—notes original and selected, the latter are abridged from those of the editors and commentators of recognized authority—and introductions to each play, which are likewise eclectic, consisting of the most pertinent and serviceable passages from the writings of English, American, and German critics, in illustration of its origin, construction, and dramatic purpose.

This work has been done so well that it could hardly have been done better. It shows throughout, knowledge, taste, discriminating judgment, and what is rarer and of yet higher value, a sympathetic appreciation of the poet's moods and purposes. All of the readings which Mr. ROLFE has chosen will hardly be received by any one competent critic, except himself, still less by all such critics. But this was not to be expected. SHAKESPEARE's text is in just that state of corruption in many passages of the original editions, and the authorities for it are just so conflicting and uncertain, that there must ever be a pretty wide range of debatable ground on which there will be room for conflict of opinion among those who are best qualified to pass judgment. This debatable ground has been narrowing generation after generation for more than a century and a half. The common sense and poetic instinct of the world have gradually settled, by a sort of tacit consent, upon this or that reading of a disputed passage; and this work will probably go on, until in process of time there will be a text generally accepted as of highest authority, and in which there will be very few passages as to which there is any reasonable uncertainty. Of the two plays before us, Mr. ROLFE gives, on the whole, as good a text as we know. He is not stiffly conservative in this regard; he does not pin his faith blindly upon any one of the old editions, or submit deferentially to the decisions of any one editor, no matter what his reputation; neither is he rash. On the other hand his delicacy and his reverence for his author never make him timid. Preparing these plays as text-books for schools, he has felt obliged to omit some passages which are too outspoken for the fastidious taste of our day in point of words, at least, if not of thoughts and things. We doubt the prudence of this practice, not believing that there is in Shakespeare, particularly in the "Tempest" and the "Merchant of Venice," anything really harmful, or likely to soil a pure mind. But if done at all, it should be done just as Mr. ROLFE has done it, very sparingly, and with no indication of the elisions. Mr. ROLFE avoids either "Bowdlerising" his author, or directing prurient attention to that which he wishes to conceal by comment and warning—a process common in such cases, which is little better than that of printing all the elided passages together at the end of the volume.

Mr. ROLFE's notes are numerous but brief, and are generally well adapted to their purpose, which is that of explanation, instruction, and suggestion without discussion. The peculiarities of SHAKESPEARE's style—which, rarely obscure, is often involved, and in which the main thought is sometimes suspended, and even for a moment lost sight of amid the crowd of others that itself has called up—are pointed out and elucidated; his allusions are explained; his singular use of words, of moods and tenses and cases is remarked upon; and the archaic and transitional phraseology which is found in many passages of his plays, (positively many but comparatively very few,) are made the occasion of instructive but unpedantic comment. A very marked example of the involution and suspension to which we have referred, occurs in the following passage from the second scene of "The Tempest," in which Prospero tells Miranda the story of his brother's usurpation and his own exile.

"Prospero—My brother and thy uncle call'd Antonio—
I pray thee, mark me—(that a brother should Be so perfidious!)—he whom, next thyself,
Of all the world, I lov'd, and to him put
The manage of my state; as at that time
Through all the signiories it was the first,
(And Prospero, the prime Duke, being so reputed
In dignity,) and for the liberal arts
Without a parallel; those being all my study,
The government I cast upon my brother,
And to my state grew stranger, being transported
And rapt in secret studies:—thy false uncle—
Dost thou attend me?
Miranda—Sir, most heedfully.
Prospero—Being once perfected how to grant suits,
How to deny them, who t' advantage, and who
To trash for overtopping, new created
The creations that were mine," &c.

Here the verb to which "thy uncle" in the first line of Prospero's first speech is nominative, does not appear until the third line of the second speech, there being interjected a description of Prospero's habits of life, an assertion of the dignity of his duchy and his own pre-eminence, an explanation upon the perfidy of his brother, and setting forth of his opportunity of usurpation, and a question to arouse the hearer's attention with her reply. The simple sentence would be, "My brother (and thy uncle) new created the creatures that were mine." Yet notice how natural and truly simple the style is, under the circumstances, of the speaker and the person whom he addresses. Such speeches as this are made every day by men whose thoughts crowd upon them as they are telling stories in which they are much interested. Yet SHAKESPEARE has worked all this into blank verse. A whole play or a poem written in such a style would be intolerable; but here this style is just that which is demanded by dramatic fidelity to character and situation. This is elucidated in a brief note quoted by Mr. ROLFE from a Philadelphia edition which we have not seen. It would have been well, we think, if the editor had given fuller explanations of passages like this, and others in which the difficulties, although of a different kind, are embarrassing to the young student, or the disentanglement of which is sufficiently difficult to be made a good exercise for the class-room. To make room for these, he might well have omitted others which in any case seem superfluous for readers who have sufficient intelligence to read SHAKESPEARE at all with profit or pleasure. It is not necessary to tell such persons that, for instance, "play the men" means behave like men; that "this ancient morsell" means old Gonzalo; that (in the "Merchant of Venice") "gaged" means pledged; that "untread again" means retrace; or that "unsculp'd upon" means graven on the outside. Any Yankee boy knows what sculpin means. But when the reader is told that "throstle" is POPE's emendation for trassel of the first folio, it would have been better to say that throstle is hardly an emendation, trassel being a mere phonographic spelling of throstle, the th having been pronounced like t in SHAKESPEARE's day and the a broad, so that throstle and trassel represent the same sound. Of "emendations" like these there are thousands of which editors make no note, and very properly, unless they give occasion for elucidating some point in the history of language.

With Mr. ROLFE's estimate of ABBOTT's Shakespearean Grammar we cannot agree. He regards it as "the best work on the English of SHAKESPEARE that has yet appeared." It is a work of thorough research, and is very useful to every student of SHAKESPEARE and of the Elizabethan dramatists generally. But it seems that on the very showing of its author it teaches us nothing, or very little, upon the subject of Shakespearean grammar, simply because there is little or nothing to be taught. It is in the main a mere classification of the anomalies of construction and verbal usage common to SHAKESPEARE and the dramatists—almost exclusively the dramatists—of his day, in so far as they may be classified; and the sum of its teaching, in the main, is that writers for the stage then troubled themselves hardly at all as to regularity or consistency in their syntactical use of language, but sought only to be understood, to give fancy and imagination free range, and to put into the mouths of actors a flowing and impressive rhythm. A grammar is a system of language; and Mr. ABBOTT has only made it clearer than it was before that the Elizabethan dramatists, and measurably the poets—"learned" BEN perhaps excepted—wrote without a thought, or even an instinctive sense, of systematic conformity to strict rules of construction, or even of etymology. SHAKESPEARE not improbably wrote, in the first scene of "The Tempest," "What cares these roarers for the name of King?" But a study of his whole works shows that also not improbably he wrote "What care," &c. If the former, we cannot believe (as Mr. ROLFE seems to believe) that cares is an example of the old Northern plural in es. It is probably an example only of the looseness in such matters which were common in the dramatic writing of the day. This is a disputed point, however; and even in such minute matters there is little in Mr. ROLFE's work to which the most captious critic could take exception. His editions of these comedies are excellent, and are valuable not only for the school-room, but for the general reader. They have only one blemish, for which he is not responsible, and for which even the publishers can hardly be blamed—the wood-cuts, which, like most of their kind, are valueless either as examples of art or as illustrations of the text.

Assaulted on Duty.

Roundsman RYAN, Twenty-first Precinct, on patrol at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, was attacked by a number of ruffians at the corner of Thirty-second-street and Third-avenue, and severely beaten. One of his assailants he succeeded in holding until Officer HERRINGTON had come to his assistance. The prisoner, who gave his name as THOMAS COOLEY, was arraigned at the Yorkville Police Court and committed for trial.

Stabbed in the Dark.

At an early hour yesterday morning THOMAS DICKSON, of No. 346 West Sixteenth-street, and FOSTER MARTIN, of No. 125 West Tenth-street, were attacked at the corner of Carmine and Bleecker streets by two unknown men. DICKSON was stabbed in the breast and head and MARTIN got a severe cut on the head. The assailants have not yet been arrested.

Dedication of the Madison-Avenue Reformed Church.

The dedication of the Madison-avenue Reformed Church, corner of Fifty-seventh-street and Madison avenue, Rev. Dr. GANSE, pastor took place yesterday morning. The congregation numbered over 1 100. In May last the corner-stone was laid. The edifice is gothic in style, with rounded arches, and built of light-colored stone. Inside, the walls and roof are tinted in warm cream color, stronger colors and gilding being brought in with fine effect wherever admissible. The upholstering of the church is very rich, and the gallery, instead of being fitted up with pews as customary, is divided into sections, furnished with chairs and small tables for books, &c. Rev. Dr. GANSE, Rev. Dr. DE WITT and Rev. Dr. FERRIS took part in the dedicatory services yesterday. At the afternoon services Rev. Dr. ORMISTON preached, and Dr. ROGERS delivered the address.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

Tammany's Attempt to Deceive the Country Democrats.

From the Auburn Advertiser.

Tammany is willing that the country papers should claim that Tammany was refused admission to the Convention, that they were repudiated. And yet it will not allow its own readers to believe that Tammany did not enjoy a full triumph. It points to the truth that Tammany prescribed the course that the Convention pursued, made the slate for the ticket that was nominated, that Tammany's regularity was fully established, that the opposing delegation of reformers was refused admission. The Democratic papers may denounce Tammany if they can get votes by it, but in New-York the truth must come out, and Tammany have its triumph.

But this dodge will not deceive any candid or intelligent man. They can readily see through the disguise. The success of the Democratic ticket would be a triumph for Tammany Hall. No honest Democrat who desires reform can conscientiously vote it.

How Tammany was "Repudiated" at Rochester.

From the Buffalo Express.

Ever since the adjournment of their State Convention they have kept constantly harping upon the statement in season and out of season that Tammany was repudiated at Rochester. That this is barefaced, impudent falsehood, every intelligent mind conversant with the facts is fully aware, yet the necessity of creating this opinion, and the hope of deceiving a few voters, impels our Democratic friends to ring the changes upon this assertion until it is possible some of them may eventually come to believe it themselves. Fortunately the record of the Convention has been made, and its history is written, and it is not so old but it can be brought before the intelligent reader and the facts in the case proven. There is no evidence that TWEED and his associates even sought to intrude their personal presence upon the sitting of the Convention. What he did do was to go to Rochester well supported by his friends, and to tell those in charge of the Convention what they must and must not do, and he was obeyed, as the sequel abundantly shows. What these terms were is well understood, and may be stated as follows:

1. Recognition of the Tammany delegation as the regular and legitimately-chosen representatives of the Democracy of New-York.
2. The exclusion from the platform of resolutions of any special denunciation of Tammany.
3. The renomination of the present Tammany State officers, including the Attorney-General.

Upon the acceptance of these conditions Mr. TWEED agreed to retire, go home, and carry New-York with its usual majority for the ticket. That this compact was made and faithfully carried out is abundantly shown by the action of the Convention.

What is at Stake.

From the Fishkill Journal.

Now we confidently believe that New-York will at least place itself alongside of Ohio, elect the State ticket, and give us a Legislature that will checkmate Ring legislation. We have even more at stake than this, for the Senate elected this Fall will have a voice in choosing a United States Senator. No one will question the assertion that, should the Democratic Party be victorious this Fall, it will re-establish the Ring in all its former power, and lose to the people all the advantage so lately obtained over those remorseless thieves. Just let the Ring gain the victory this Fall, and they will be so confirmed in their strength that where they have "diamond buttons on their children's shoes" now, they will have their nurseries paved with a mosaic of diamonds, as only fit for those costly shoes to walk upon. The only hope now to save our State from an organized system of plunder is to defeat the Ring at the election this Fall.

The Disruption of the Democracy.

From the Syracuse Journal.

Much has been said by Democratic papers about Tammany's never again showing its head in a Convention. This is the sheerest nonsense. If the programme laid down by Mr. CASSIDY be followed out, what prevents Tammany Hall from controlling caucuses and Conventions just as it always has done? Nothing. What is the controlling Democratic power in York today? Not the Reform Democracy, but Tammany Hall, and on Tammany Hall the World relies to carry the election. A disastrous rupture in the Democratic Party has occurred, although the Tammany cabal is not the faction which leads it. Tammany is satisfied, because it has not been disturbed. But the Reform Democrats do not mean to submit to bargain and sale, and they are rallying for redress. There is no "Republican lie" in the action of the Reformers in New-York. There is no "Republican lie" in what the honest Democrats of the Fourth Judicial District say in denunciation of the Tammany State ticket. The World may insist that everything is serene, but whatever it may say will not change the fact that thousands of honest Democrats insist that the Tammany ticket must go down.

The Fifteenth Senatorial District.

From the Troy Times.

No wider difference could well exist between the legislative records of two men than that between the records of WEBSTER WAGNER and ISAIAH FULLER, who are now opposing candidates for the Senate in the Saratoga District. Mr. FULLER was chosen to the Assembly by the aid of several thousand dollars of Boss TWEED's money, if the common report and belief are not wrong. Certainly Mr. FULLER was uniformly the supporter of every Tammany measure in the Legislature. If TWEED did not elect him, he had possession of him and commanded his services. On the other hand, Mr. WAGNER was elected to the Assembly in spite of the money of Tammany from a Democratic county, because the people had confidence in him. He justified their faith by his action in the Assembly, always voting upon the side of the popular interest and against the Rings and corporations which run the last Legislature. The people of the Senatorial district cannot hesitate in their choice between the two men. They will elect the man who will represent them, instead of the one who will represent the New-York Ring.

The Need of Active Work by the Republicans.

From the Newburg Journal.

The present is no time for apathy on the part of Republicans. The necessary work of the campaign presses. There is little time to do it in. And if we would have it done with success, the working men of the party must be up and doing. There is every desirable incentive to labor. The Democratic ranks are broken and demoralized by the exposure of the iniquities which their leaders have practiced. Hundreds of good men in every county of the State will, on the 7th of November, for the first time in their lives, repudiate the Democratic ticket and vote for Republicans. These men feel that the success of the Democratic ticket is the success of fraud and corruption. They know that it is idle to expect the party to be rescued from the control of Tammany Hall by electing here and there an honest man to the minor offices, while the purse-strings and the influential positions are held by men like TWEED. Hence they are prepared to vote for Republicans. And our party is giving them, by the nomination of able and honest men, abundant excuse for abandoning their own tainted candidates. But if Republicans are indifferent, the common cause of a pure and economical administration of public affairs will be slain in the house of its especial friends.

The Tenth Senatorial District.

From the Middletown Press.

Mr. MADDEN's political and business career is so well known not only here but throughout the entire district, that it seems superfluous to say one word with reference thereto in introducing him as our candidate. For many years he has carried on in this place, in connection with his business partners, varied and extensive manufacturing interests that are the boast of our village, and which have been one of the great, if not the greatest elements of our growth and prosperity as a community. The people of Middletown are under a very great debt of obligation to such men as Mr. MADDEN, whose business enterprise and energy have done so much for its advancement and welfare. Decided in his opinions upon all local questions and political measures, and frank and fearless in giving expression to his view, as a matter of course he has at some times come in sharp conflict with those maintaining opposite opinions upon matters of public policy, possibly causing momentary irritation, between the contending parties. For the sake of mere policy or temporary popularity Mr. MADDEN has never held back from taking a hand in the discussion and settlement of whatever question has come up that had two sides to it, and has thrown all the earnestness and energy of his nature into the maintenance of his side of the argument or dispute. People generally like a decided, outspoken, fearless man, whom you will always know where to find, even though they may occasionally decidedly differ with him. And this trait in our candidate, we look upon as one of the strongest elements that will tend to his success in the pending canvass. The people of Orange and Sullivan Counties always know where and how EDWARD M. MADDEN stands upon political questions or local matters in which their interests are concerned. He has already served one term in the Senate of this State, some fifteen years ago, and well and faithfully were the interests of his constituents looked after. He at once took a leading and influential position in that body and made his mark as a legislator.

MONDAY, Oct. 23—A. M.

Wall-street is well over the panic growing out of the Chicago calamity a fortnight ago, and which was aggravated by the undue expansion of the City Banks about the same time. The Banks have now brought themselves within rule, though at the cost of a contraction upon borrowers, the majority of whom were Wall-street people, of nearly fifteen million of dollars in two weeks. The effect was also felt outside the Street by the Merchants. The ability to discount by the Banks was decreased, and the rates of discount outside of Bank suddenly advanced, checking the previous freedom in general trade for the time, and creating anxiety about the future of the Money market. As the Stock Exchange was the first to feel the panic, so it is the first to recover its equanimity, if not its buoyancy. The Merchants also begin to feel reassured, as there is no good reason why they should not, and the only remaining trouble from the Chicago fire relates to the settlements of the Fire Insurance Companies. A number of these in New-York and Brooklyn have been bankrupted, and while they have no difficulty in realizing upon their Stock investments, they hold, in addition, a large number of bond and mortgage security on New-York and Brooklyn property, which will have to be resold at a sacrifice, or else summarily foreclosed, to the temporary prejudice of real estate. But, after all, the amount thus involved cannot be very large, nor is it a matter of moment to the general prosperity whether or not a check is thus given to the advance in City property.

After a fortnight's experience of the financial effects of the great calamity in Wall-street and upon Merchant credits, it is safe to assume that the losses at Chicago have no real National significance; no very serious influence upon the general trade of the country, no important drawback upon the revenues of the Government. In a week or two the world of Finance and of Commerce, of Railway traffic and of business confidence will probably move on as though no such calamity had occurred. It is fortunate for us that the financial situation in Europe just now favors an early recovery from the depressing effects of an event at home, which no prudence could have foreseen or guarded against.

The weekly averages of the Associated Banks, Local and National, reporting through the Clearing-house for the week ending Saturday last, Oct. 21, compare as follows with the previous week, and also with the corresponding week last year. To which we add the Gold and Currency balances in the New-York office of the United States Treasury at these dates respectively:

The Bank return published this morning exhibits the relative strength of the movement in respect to the lawful money held as against the circulation and deposits, to which we add the position of the movement the week before, and also of the movement of the corresponding week last year:

The Bank return shows a heavy liquidation of Loans, and consequently of Deposits, about ten millions ($9,930,900) in the former, and $11,391,100 in Deposits. The averages of Greenbacks and Gold Notes are nearly the same as last Monday; less by $827,200 in Greenbacks and a gain of $823,700 in Gold Notes. The general result of the return places the Banks $1,594,775 above the 25 ₱ cent. rule of Lawful Money to Deposits and Circulation in place of $1,259,425 below the rule on the previous return—a gain on the Lawful Money basis of $2,854,200. The loss of Greenbacks was unexpectedly small, and the whole Statement gave satisfaction to the Street, and caused the rates of Money on demand loan to Brokers to ease up and Stocks to rise. Money, as a rule, through the forenoon was 7 ₱ cent. Later in the day balances were lent at 6@5 ₱ cent. for the sake of two days' Interest over Sunday.

The Treasury Office received for the week $2,955,157 for customs in Gold; paid out $1,028,973 for Gold interest—principally November interest by rebate—and sold $2,000,000 Gold on Thursday.

The Import Entries at New-York, embracing foreign Dry Goods and General Merchandise, for the past week, were $7,115,036 as against $6,310,229 for the corresponding week last year. The Exports of Domestic Produce, other than Gold and Silver, were $5,831,474, against $3,196,133 same week in 1870. The exports of Gold and silver, $601,843, against $556,181 same week in 1870. The Customs in Gold paid into the New-York Office of the United States Treasury for the week were $2,955,157. The receipts of Cotton, coastwise and by rail, $29,434.

The Gold values of the Import entries of Foreign Merchandise at New-York, exclusive of Foreign Specie, for the calendar year 1871, are as follows, the figures being official to Sept. 1, and since semi-official from the Custom-house:

January	$28,583,376	Sept. 2	$8,721,077

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞WINSLOW, LANIER & CO.,

No. 27 PINE-STREET,

Offer for sale, at 90 per cent. and accrued interest in currency, and recommend as an investment of the most undoubted character, the 7 Per Cent. Bonds of the GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY. They have 30 years to run, principal and interest payable in gold, coupon or registered, interest October and April. They are secured by a first mortgage on 290 miles of finished road and 100 miles more in progress, and on a Land Grant of one million one hundred and sixty thousand acres of lumber land in Northern Michigan. The road extends from Fort Wayne, where it connects with the extensive system of roads centering at that point, northerly, and having been finished through the rich agricultural region of Southern and Central Michigan, has now penetrated the Land Grant. The lands have been recently put upon the market, and are being rapidly sold. By the terms of the mortgage the proceeds of the land must be invested by the Trustees in the purchase of the Bonds, which insures their constant repurchase from the holders. This Land Grant is estimated to be worth $12,000,000, and is probably more available for immediate sale than any other Land Grant ever made to any company. The whole issue is Eight Million Dollars, of which more than six millions have been disposed of. This road is run as a connection of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, and the Pennsylvania Railroad, and has the powerful support of those companies and their numerous affiliated lines. These Bonds have been sold in large lines to the most prudent investors.

☞THE PEORIA AND ROCK ISLAND 7 PER CENT. FIRST MORTGAGE CONVERTIBLE GOLD BONDS may now be obtained from the undersigned, and from banks and bankers throughout the country, at

NINETY AND ACCRUED INTEREST.

They are secured by a mortgage on ninety-one miles of completed road connecting the cities of Peoria and Rock Island, and having a navigable river at each end. The road forms a part of a short through route from the Atlantic to the Pacific Roads, and its net earnings are largely in excess of the interest on the total issue of bonds, which is about $16,500 per mile. The business offered is sufficient to pay a large dividend on the capital stock, making the bonds absolutely safe, and a very desirable investment.

Maps and pamphlets furnished, containing full particulars, by

TURNER BROTHERS, No. 14 Nassau-st.

☞THE WEST WISCONSIN RAILWAY is now very nearly finished, and trains will be running through from Tomah to St. Paul by Nov. 1. The earnings of the Road from local traffic on the completed portion constitute already a profitable business; and arrangements and connections are about perfected which will make it the Great Air-Line Route from Chicago to the North-west, effecting a saving of more than 100 miles over the present route. The Bonds are a First Mortgage on the road itself and on a valuable Land Grant of 1,000,000 acres. They bear interest in gold at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and are sold now at 90 and accrued interest in currency by WHITE, MORRIS & CO., No. 18 Wall-st., and GWYNNE, JOHNSON & DAY, No. 16 Wall-st., where pamphlets and further information may be obtained.

☞EIGHT PER CENT. GOLD BONDS.—First mortgage on the Montgomery and Eufaula Railroad, and indorsed by the State of Alabama. The road has but two or three miles to finish. Limited to $16,000 per mile of finished road. A good road, a safe bond and a good guarantee. We offer them at 95 and interest.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND LAND-GRANT BONDS OF THE ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY.

IN DENOMINATIONS OF $1,000, $500, AND $100, can now be had from the undersigned or through the principal banks and bankers of the United States. The attention of investors is invited to the merits of these bonds, secured by a first and only mortgage on the road, equipments, franchises, and property of a trunk line of railroad which will shorten the distance between New-York and San Francisco some 230 miles, and in addition the mortgage to secure the bonds covers a land-grant of 1,500,000 acres of the most fertile land in the West, which is prohibited from being sold at less than four ($4) dollars per acre by the terms of the mortgage deed, and according to the present market price of the Illinois Central Company's lands is worth $18,750,000. This loan was originally for $5,500,000, but has been largely reduced by subscriptions of actual investors. The remaining balance of the loan is offered at 97½ and accrued interest, but the right is reserved to advance the price at any time, with out notice.

The bonds have thirty years to run; bear 8 per cent. interest, payable in New-York, London or Frankfort-on-the-Main, at the option of the holder, without notice, free of taxes. BOTH PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE PAYABLE IN GOLD. They are Coupon Bonds, but can be registered with the coupons on, or can be registered with the coupons off, and interest paid to registered owner. Interest payable Aug. 15 and Feb. 15. A liberal sinking fund, formed from the entire land sales, in payment for which the bonds will be received at par and accrued interest, provides for the early extinguishment of this loan.

Trustees—Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

These bonds offer favorable inducements to parties desiring to fund their Five-Twenties or other high-priced securities.

In converting Five-Twenties the investors realize 17 per cent. profit on the principal; 3 per cent. per annum excess of interest; and at the same time get a perfect security.

Maps, circulars, documents, and full information furnished on application.

Though acting as agents for the sale of this loan, our firm buy and sell in their regular business the bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, those of the Eastern Division being now quoted at 102 and accrued interest. These were originally placed by us at 97½.

☞CHESAPEAKE AND OHIOS — FIVE-TWENTIES—CENTRAL PACIFICS.

BANKING OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH, No. 5 NASSAU-ST. NEW-YORK, Oct. 23, 1871.

The SIX PER CENT. GOLD BONDS of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY are rapidly being taken up. Only a limited amount of the smaller denominations is left. These bonds offer unsurpassed safety and a liberal income, and are especially suitable for investments.

The great line of railroad upon which they are based is already completed and in operation from Richmond to the White Sulphur Springs—227 miles, and the portion between the Ohio River and the coal deposits of the Kanawha Valley, (nearly 100 miles,) is nearly ready for traffic. The intermediate section of about 100 miles is also well advanced, and will be completed and in operation within one year, so as to form a continuous trunk line from the navigable waters of the Atlantic to the Ohio River.

When the Railroad is completed, in 1872, and the Bonds are dealt in at the Stock Exchanges of the world, we have no doubt they will be equally popular with the Central Pacifics, which now command a large premium, and are a favorite security here and in Europe, both roads being prominent lines, and under substantially the same fiscal management. Principal and interest of the CENTRAL PACIFIC and CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO BONDS are specifically payable in gold coin in New-York; the interest on the former being paid January and July, and of the latter, May and November, corresponding with the two classes of Five-twenties.

We recommend either of them to our friends and customers with the same confidence that we did the Five twenty Bonds, when we were selling millions of them for the United States Government.

We buy and sell FIVE-TWENTIES, TEN-FORTIES, EIGHTY-ONES, and CENTRAL or WESTERN PACIFICS, or receive them in payment for CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO BONDS at their current market price. Orders for Chesapeake and Ohio Bonds, accompanied with Drafts or Checks, may be forwarded to us by mail, and the bonds will be sent by express, charges paid.

Bonds are in coupon or registered form, same as FIVE-TWENTIES; run thirty years; principal and interest in United States gold coin. Price, 93 and accrued interest, that is, with coupon attached, due Nov. 1.

$1,000 Chesapeake and Ohio Bond costs today $958 77.
$500 Chesapeake and Ohio Bond costs today $479 38.
$100 Chesapeake and Ohio Bond costs today $95 88.

THE FIRES IN MICHIGAN.

Character of the Land Burned Over—Alarm in Detroit.

From the Detroit Post, Oct. 21.

Fuller details of the recent fires in this State establish the fact that the forest conflagrations have swept through many thousands of acres of the most valuable pine lands in our lower peninsula, and the resulting depreciation in their value and the consequent loss to their owners must be estimated by hundreds of thousands of dollars. The standing pine has not been totally ruined for lumber, but in most cases can only be saved by prompt cutting, and the damage has been so widespread that this compulsory "logging" will unquestionably involve heavy losses to the unfortunate owners of what has been considered the most promising class of property in this State.

At an early hour last evening the hazy atmosphere of the day became unpleasantly laden with smoke, the excessive pungency of which clearly indicated to all that fires of large proportions were burning in the country adjacent to the city, and direful rumors of burning villages were soon rife in all sections of the city. The prevailing report, however, was that Royal Oak and Pontiac were being consumed by flame, but responsible parties who arrived on the Saginaw freight train at 9:35 o'clock informed our reporter that all such reports were wholly without foundation. Fires were burning in the woods at some points between Birmingham and Pontiac, but not to any alarming extent, or more extensively than for several days past. The same was also true of all places between Detroit and Holly.

Farmers who came to the city on the Fort Gratiot and Pontiac Roads, in the afternoon, reported fires burning in the woods within six or seven miles from the city limits, but they apprehended no trouble therefrom, and have not as yet attempted to extinguish the flames. On the line of the Detroit and Howell Railroad fires are reported within ten miles of the city, and considerable damage has already been done by the burning of fences and cut wood. In some places the forest on either side of the railroad track was on fire. West of the city, however, the news is more startling. On Thursday it was reported that the woods in Wyandotte were on fire, and a gentleman who came up from that city yesterday afternoon says that the farmers were all out fighting the flames, which were raging fiercely and spreading rapidly. This report is corroborated by JOHN F. MUNRO, who was engaged in surveying in that section of country yesterday, and who arrived home last evening. The reeds and rushes upon both banks of the River Rouge, and also the tall grass in the marshes, are burning for a distance of two or three miles. In Redford and Greenfield the situation is the same, a farmer from the first-named township informing our reporter last evening that hundreds of acres of wood and marsh land in those townships were burning, the farmers in many places having been fighting the further progress of the fire for several hours.

It will thus be seen that there is no fire nearer the city than six or seven miles, and no one need apprehend danger, as none exists. The smoke, which drifted up from the Rouge in dense volumes, proved exceedingly annoying and painful to the eyes, but no more serious effects will follow.

A Revolting Outrage in Brooklyn.

Yesterday afternoon BERTHA SCHUMACKER, a beautiful child, aged four years, was outraged, and so horribly maltreated by JOSEPH BOSE, in the basement of his residence, No. 113 Johnson-street, Williamsburg, that her life is despaired of. The child managed to escape and reach the street, where her cries drew together a large crowd, and her piteous condition excited the indignation and horror of the assembled citizens. They immediately resolved to enter BOSE's residence, capture and hang him, but before they had time to carry out their resolution the Police arrested BOSE, whom they found hidden in his cellar. While on the way to Stagg-street Station-house with the prisoner, several attempts were made by the citizens to take the prisoner from the Police for the purpose of hanging him, but he was finally lodged in the cells. BOSE is a married man, forty-four years of age.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Superintendent until 12 M., Nov. 9, 1871, for furnishing, delivering, fitting, and putting in place the wrought and cast-iron work exhibited in plans, specifications, and schedules now in this office, consisting of rolled iron beams, channel-irons, angle and T-irons, tie-rods, boiler-iron plates, angle and fish plates, bolts, rivets, &c., and cast-iron columns, pilasters, cornices, brackets, bed plates &c.

The work of the columns, pilasters, rolled-iron beams, &c., to third story, must be furnished, delivered, fitted, and put in place as rapidly as required by the Superintendent or the progress of the work, the whole to be completed and put in place by July 4, 1872.

The contractors will be permitted the use of the dericks and engines in putting the work in place without charge, but will be required to pay the time of the men employed in working them, who will be furnished by the Department, when required.

All scaffolding to be furnished by the contractors.

Proposals will be made by the piece, lineal foot or by weight, for the various beams, channel irons, castings, &c., as provided for in the schedules.

The work will not be subdivided among different bidders, but will be considered in the aggregate.

Payments will be made monthly, deducting ten per cent. until the final completion of the contract.

All bids must be accompanied by a penal bond, in the sum of $50,000, that the bidder will accept and perform the contract, if awarded him, the sufficiency of the security to be certified by the United States Judge, Clerk of the United States Court, or District-Attorney of the district where he resides.

The Department reserves the right to reject any or all bids, if it be deemed for the interest of the Government to do so; and any bid that is not made on the printed form to be obtained in this office, and does not conform in every respect to the requirements of this advertisement, will not be considered; neither will any proposals be received from parties who are not themselves engaged in the manufacture of cast or wrought-iron work, and who have not the necessary facilities for getting out the work.

Proposals will be indorsed "Bids for Iron Work," and addressed to

CALVIN T. HULBURD, Superintendent.

The New-York Times,
DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy, influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, and advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

The utmost care will be devoted to gathering political news from special sources during the Presidential canvass. This department of the paper will be unusually full and trustworthy. Renewed enterprise will be exhibited in every department of the paper, and large space will be devoted to reports of speeches made during elections, or on other important political occasions.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

An Instructive Spectacle.

In the Fourth Senatorial District of this City, W. M. TWEED is a candidate for reelection. He has already made several speeches to his constituents, in one of which he boasted that he would be elected this year by a larger majority than ever. In another speech, delivered only last Friday, he spoke of the attacks made upon him by "his political opponents," and added the following remarks:

> "I can conscientiously say I have had the public good as my objective point, and it is most gratifying to me to know that the people from whom my official power emanated are satisfied with my past course, and assure me, and formally too, of their faith in my future. [Enthusiastic cheering.] I again and again thank you, fellow-citizens, for the nomination and reception you have given me, and confidently look forward to the glorious victory that is in store for the whole regular Democratic ticket." [Great cheering.]

Why do we call this an instructive spectacle? Because the man who thus boasts of the certainty of his being sent to Albany as a State Senator, at present stands in a most extraordinary position. It is not merely that he has been accused of forgetting his "objective point," the "public good." It is not merely that he is proved to have debauched the Legislature year after year—or that he is a low, coarse, brutal, illiterate man, utterly unfit to sit in a room with decent people, much less to occupy what ought to be the honorable position of State Senator. Nor is it merely that W. M. TWEED is a very bad specimen of that very bad class of "politicians" which has come into power during the last few years—brought straight from the gutter to the highest places of authority in this City. All this is true—but there is something much more behind. The great fact which renders it a monstrous scandal that W. M. TWEED should be allowed to proclaim himself a candidate for the Senate is that he is a thief—ten times worse a thief than many a miserable wretch who is now expiating his offenses in Sing Sing.

In the course of last year W. M. TWEED deposited in the National Broadway Bank $932,838 50, between May and September. He paid in this money in various sums, to his own credit—and every one of these sums was drawn from the public Treasury ostensibly to pay the claims of persons who were supposed to have done work for the City. That he received much more than $932,838 50 is certain—but this particular amount has been traced to him. He received it in checks, which were nominally drawn for work performed by other parties. It was his share of the Garvey, Keyser, and Ingersoll frauds. Of all this, full proofs will very soon be laid before the public.

The laborers of the City Departments cannot get paid. The Treasury is empty. But in six months TWEED deposited nearly one million of dollars in one bank, and every cent of that million was stolen from the tax-payers. This will be rendered as clear as the sun at noonday, by the examination which has been made of the accounts in the National Broadway Bank.

And yet W. M. TWEED is almost certain to be re-elected to the State Senate—barring certain accidents which have not entered into his calculations. He laughs at public opinion. Many Democratic papers still sound his praises. Mayor HALL, who must be intimately acquainted with all the facts, speaks of TWEED in his paper this week as the "constant friend of the poor and distressed," and as a man whose "wise counsels, decision of character, and great executive ability have shone out conspicuously." Moreover, the Mayor praises him for the "honesty and straightforwardness of his official character." HALL knows what TWEED has done. He knows that TWEED has robbed the poor most cruelly, while flinging to them a few scraps of the plunder every now and then, just to keep them quiet. Is HALL any better than TWEED? Is it not, as we say, an instructive spectacle to see these two rascals at the head of the Government in this great City—and boasting of their power to keep there?

The Key to the Situation.

It needs no argument to show that the key to the Tammany defenses is in the election. Everybody, and every organization that has any interest in the contest, shows by word and act that this is the case. The Committee of Seventy, while it is using every possible means to bring the knaves to account before the criminal Courts, recognizes the importance of getting an energetic popular expression at the polls. It has accordingly opened head-quarters in Union-square, and is prepared to give information to any one who may need it, as to the means of casting a vote on the 7th of November. The Reform Democrats indicate their appreciation of the proper means to overcome Tammany by presenting for local and judicial officers a ticket headed by Gen. SIGEL, thus demonstrating the sincerity of their desire to effect a practical and complete union with all who are in earnest in reform. The Investigating Committee, who, since they were called together by the Mayor, have been allowed to see enough of the working of our municipal machinery to convince them that the whole truth could only be got at by plenary powers of investigation, and who were refused these powers, have discontinued their work, leaving it to the people to secure by their votes an opportunity to fully expose the condition of affairs. The Tammany leaders themselves are straining every nerve to get an apparent, even if fraudulent, victory at the polls, and the Herald boasts that the entire Tammany Senatorial ticket will be elected. Not a stone is left unturned by these desperate politicians, under which they can hope to find the treasure of a pretended popular indorsement.

Every election district not only in the City but in the State, where they can hope for success in the use of bribery, intimidation, or political bargaining, is being "worked" by them with untiring energy, and, it must be said, with a spirit of confidence in the efficiency of their corrupt tactics. The bold campaign of TWEED at Rochester, as the result of which he compelled the Democratic Convention to refrain from repudiating or interfering with the rule of Tammany in the City, and to adopt all its candidates for State offices, was a proof of the high value placed by him on his political connections. His plan is very simple. He has kept his gang inside the party. If the party can now carry the State he can point defiantly to the election returns, and dare the Democrats in the Legislature to drive him from power to which the Democracy has acknowledged his right. A Democratic Legislature, under those circumstances, could not stir a step in the direction of actual reform.

TWEED, with Democratic victory to work on, would be more powerful at Albany than he was at Rochester. The party that condoned his crimes in convention, for the sake of securing his powerful though corrupt aid in the election, would bend helplessly to his will, if the election should be secured. If TWEED could ask at Rochester, What are you going to do without me? he could ask with still more effect at Albany, What would you have done without me? A Democratic triumph would be a triumph of Tammany, and none know it better than the Tammany men themselves.

On the other hand, a defeat of the Democratic ticket at the polls would be an immense gain for the cause of Reform. The organizations engaged in ferreting out the authors of municipal corruption would feel that their labors could not be made vain. The Courts before which these organizations are trying to bring the guilty parties would, if honest, understand that the people demanded the exercise of every legitimate power to bring the offenders to justice, and if the Courts were not above calculating their political interests, they would see too plainly for any doubt that their interest lay wholly on the side of the community, and not on that of the rejected Ring. Entirely apart from the permanent advantage likely to come from the reform of our Municipal Government by an honest Legislature, the prospect of immediate dislodgment of the Tammany officials, and immediate relief from their manifold mismanagement and corruption, would be incalculably improved by the discomfiture of the Tammany Democrats at the polls.

Every citizen can see this if he will but reflect a moment. He will see, also, that, to bring about such a result it is worth his while to use every right he has left him, and not to be discouraged or disgusted without doing all he can do. Every voter can register. He may be detained or bothered, but if he is determined and watchful he can be registered before election. Once registered, he can vote, if he undertakes to vote early, and does not give up till his vote is in. Let every one, then, do this much. If the vote is miscounted, every honest vote makes a miscount by so much the more difficult and dangerous. And at any rate, it is the plain, pre-eminent duty of every citizen, leaving the future to be cared for when it comes, to do all that he can do to secure a triumph of good government at the polls.

Mr. Catacazy.

> "We hope the Grand Duke will have a cordial and honorable reception, for the friendship his country has shown to ours, and the generosity with which Russia treated our naval officers a few years ago; but we beg that he may be greeted with dignity and entertained with good manners and good taste.
> And to this end we insist that there be an end to this discreditable quarrel with the Minister whom the Czar chooses to keep with us, and our Government does not choose to send away. The manner in which he has been badgered and semi-officially insulted would be shameful treatment for the official representative of any foreign Power entitled to the immunities of the Diplomatic Corps; it is foolish, as well as criminal, when applied to the representative of the Power that, in time of trial, proved our best friend. We say nothing for or against Mr. CATACAZY; we demand that the representative of Russia be treated with all the courtesy due our ancient ally, and that the visit of the Czar's son be not made the occasion for fresh slights to the Czar's Minister Plenipotentiary."—New-York Tribune.

The facts in respect to Mr. CATACAZY are believed to be substantially these: Not very long after his reception by the President as Minister, there was reason to regard him as the inspirer, or author, of publications in different journals of the United States, which not only misrepresented the actual condition of the political relations existing between the Governments at Washington and St. Petersburg, but were very abusive of the President and his Administration. Suspicions against the Minister of Russia ripened in time into actual proof. Not content with these unfriendly acts, Mr. CATACAZY was well understood, during the negotiations which preceded the Treaty of Washington, to be interfering, as an intriguer and mischief-maker, with what did not concern him, and was not within his privileges in this country. His repeated and persistent violations of diplomatic proprieties at last became unendurable by this Government, and his recall was requested. When the facts in the case were laid before the Emperor, that great friend of peace and upright conduct directed his Foreign Office to ask, in his name, that the President would "tolerate" Mr. CATACAZY until the visit of his son, Duke ALEXIS, was concluded. To this personal appeal President GRANT assented, but added as a condition that the offensive Minister should have access to the President only, when accompanied by the Duke, and then to hold no conversation whatever. It was also promised by the Emperor that, the visit over, Mr. CATACAZY should be at once recalled. The President has also informed the Minister that if he is not then withdrawn from this country, his passport will be sent to him, which act differs little from expulsion.

It is to be assumed, at least by our own countrymen, that in taking so grave a step the President has acted upon sound and compelling reasons. It can hardly be possible that the Department of State is mistaken as to the facts, and if Mr. CATACAZY has ventured to so far violate the proprieties and rules of the diplomatic sevice as to vilify the rulers of the country to which he is accredited, and mingle offensively in its internal affairs, we venture to say that every one, of every party, will approve the act which banishes him from our hospitality. It is well that ambitious and intriguing diplomatic representatives of foreign Powers should be taught, once for all, that they cannot with impunity do things in Washington which they would never venture upon in any other foreign capital.

We earnestly unite in the hope that "the Grand Duke will have a cordial and honorable reception," not upon the ground that Russia, in time of our trial, "proved our best friend," or is "our ancient ally," for that may or may not be a fact; but for the reason that we would maintain unimpaired our reputation for generous hospitality to the good and great of foreign lands. The presence of the obnoxious Minister,—who is not now, under the arrangement made by the President and the Czar, "entitled to the immunities of the Diplomatic Corps,"—ought to have, and will have, no effect on the character of the reception. He will not, in fact, be the Minister of Russia, but simply an attendant upon the Grand Duke, whom the Emperor has, for purposes of his own, asked the President to "tolerate."

Lessons from the Chicago Disaster.

As private advices come in from Chicago, the sense of the wide-reaching range of the calamity, and at the same time, of the high qualities of human nature it has called forth, is deepened. The usual selfishness and rivalry between men seemed, in the first glow of the universal compassion, almost melted away. The first large city which aided ruined Chicago was its rival and enemy, St. Louis. The Chicago Tribune was at once supplied with type by papers in other cities that in its prosperity had ridiculed or attacked it. The very morning after the conflagration, without appeal or request, car-load after car-load poured in from the villages of Illinois and Michigan, of every description of stores and provisions, some singularly inappropriate, as if the neighboring farmers had poured forth the contents of house and barns, to relieve any distress that might occur. The response from the country and the world to this great calamity is already matter of history. It has formed a new chapter in human generosity.

Every class in this City, from the millionaire to the newsboy, has poured forth its savings to assist those thus suddenly reduced to beggary and houselessness. The telegraph makes all men neighbors; both science and Christianity are uniting formerly jealous and hostile peoples, so that the misfortune of one great city at once touches the heart of the civilized world.

When the great fire in London occurred, we cannot doubt that public joy was expressed in Holland and Spain. The calamity of one great Power was then thought the gain of all others. Now, political economy has taught, and religion sanctions the axiom, that the losses of one nation are the misfortune of all. Chicago herself feels this great generosity and sympathy of the world far more even than the money contributions, rich as those are. They seem to have given her new life and hope in her hard struggle. Now, too, for the first time, men have appreciated the precious value of that best feature in America—a pure family life. In the utter beggary of all worldly goods, with years of penury and sacrifice opening before them, and all their hard-earned wealth suddenly turned to ashes, they have found a new treasure in the love of wife and child, which has shone brighter and purer the more utter and crushing the calamity. We hear of one wealthy merchant stripped of everything, who sends his children away to his relatives, while his wife becomes his book-keeper, and they start in life anew in a single room. But the innumerable instances of woman's generosity and sympathy in this hour of man's misfortune, will never be known except on the records of heaven.

It cannot but be, also, that a profound moral lesson will reach both the West and the whole country from this tremendous calamity. The two cities which will suffer from it most have been the centres of national gambling and the wildest speculation. New-York and Chicago have the evil reputation of containing the most insane and untiring hunters for wealth, the most unscrupulous speculators in grain and stocks, and the most extravagant spendthrifts of wealth suddenly made, who have ever been known under modern civilization. This awful misfortune suddenly falling on these classes, must touch those sentiments which are never utterly dried up in the human breast—the desire for other goods than the things seen and temporal, and the sense of the nothingness of all worldly wealth, compared with the riches unseen and eternal.

The fierce fever of speculation among our young men must be cooled, at least for a little time, by such a gigantic calamity. People will live more moderately, and content themselves with slower paths to wealth. The indirect and complicated influences from this disaster are as yet only beginning to be felt by our nation. No such sudden destruction of values ever occurred before in time of peace. Two hundred millions of property going off in twenty-four hours in smoke, is a phenomenon never experienced before by the financial world. Our civil war was estimated to cost a million a day, but a considerable part of this expense provided food and clothing for men, and beasts of burden for use, much of which remained. Then the cost was thrown upon other generations, and a wider community. The total of absolute waste and destruction of property was much less than a million per day, and was paid gradually and in small installments. Here two hundred millions are at a stroke turned into ashes. On this capital, too, an enormous credit business was done, no doubt of three or four times as much, all which is temporarily blocked up.

Thousands of "Eastern" people, widows and professional persons, attracted by the current interest of ten per cent., had lent money to Chicago on bond and mortgage. The buildings are gone with the insurance, and nothing remains but the lots; these are comparatively of no value, without new buildings. The lenders, if they would recover the value of their properties, must lend again to build new structures. If they foreclose, they gain nothing and treat their creditors with oppressive harshness. There will be great embarrassment among these. The merchants in our sea-board cities have immense indebtedness in Chicago, but their creditors not only have no means of paying, but have often lost all evidence of the indebtedness to them, from thousands of customers over the Western country. For the credit of human nature, it should be said that nothing can exceed the liberality and fairness with which our merchants treat these unfortunate debtors. Credit is granted them with the freest hand, and every assistance afforded them to tide over this terrible crisis.

The losses covered by insurance distribute, indeed, the Chicago calamity, but they bring it home to thousands of families here, who had invested their savings in insurance stocks. Every one throughout our Eastern communities will feel this Chicago calamity during the coming Winter, and we should not be surprised at seeing a considerable reduction of values in all species of property in consequence.

The New Wonder Land.

A letter has been received by Prof. HENRY, the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, which gives a graphic account of the marvelous Yellowstone region. The writer is Mr. ELLIOTT, the artist, who went with the Hayden Exploring Expedition, described in these columns some time ago. The accounts of the Yellowstone country hitherto received, even when brought by authorities so respectable as Lieut. DOANE, have been so extraordinary that confirmatory testimony has been anxiously looked for. Even now, and with every respect for the new witness, part of whose evidence we shall quote, the official narrative of the Hayden Expedition must be deemed needful before we can altogether accept stories of wonder hardly short of fairy tales in the astounding phenomena they describe.

What is known as the "Great Cañon" is depicted by Mr. ELLIOTT in a way fully attesting previous statements. It is a huge basaltic fissure, or rent in the earth, beginning at Tower Creek, and ending at the foot of the Lower Falls of the Yellowstone. Hence, it is twenty-five or thirty miles long. The Cañon varies from one to two thousand feet in depth, and along its bottom the river whirls with immense velocity, appearing from above "now a blue and now a snowy ribbon." The attrition of the stream for countless ages has worn the sides of the chasm into strange shapes of "towers, points, and pinnacles," and these are "gayly painted by the waters of the numberless warm and hot springs which ooze out from the fissures into a variety of tints and tones, dazzling white, intense red, purple, saffron, yellow, &c., and fairly bewildering the eye, at first, by their singularity and grandeur." The cañon is moreover fringed in some places with rows of basaltic pillars, quite regular in form, from twenty to thirty feet high, and standing, without crack or flaw, in regular tiers one above the other.

The great Falls are more imposing still. They are "a broad, evenly deep sheet of clear ice water, leaping down at one bound four hundred and fifty feet." Unbroken by any point or division, they rush over the ledge a vast curtain, as of swift, foaming lace. These are the Lower Falls, the Upper being just the height of Niagara, or one hundred and fifty feet, and but half a mile distant from the other. Thus, within that short space, the stream makes a descent of six hundred feet. Not far away is the lovely Yellowstone Lake, which has a shore line of nearly a hundred and sixty miles, and a depth, in some places, of over four hundred feet. The water of the lake is icy cold, and it is frequently "thick and green with millions of algæ." It is well stocked, like the river, with trout, some of great size, and it contains other finny monsters, the like of which are unknown elsewhere. But the chief marvel of this section would seem to be the "Geysers of the Fire-hole Basin." These are at the head-waters of the Madison, and in magnitude and extent of area reduce the famous boiling springs of Iceland to complete insignificance. Mr. ELLIOTT writes:

> "I have stood by a crater, and have seen a column of hot (boiling) water six feet in diameter, ascend with a single bound, vertically, to a height of 200 feet—pause there for an instant, and fall to its silicified basin in a thousand watery streams, and a million prismatic drops. This was repeated ten or fifteen minutes, then all would be quiet; the water of the cistern became as still as that of a mill-pond, and apparently as inactive. This geyser, which is one of many, we named the Grand. It plays at irregular intervals of twenty-four to thirty hours, for from ten to twenty minutes. Another, named by DOANE 'Old Faithful,' plays at intervals of only an hour apart, throwing up an immense steady column to an elevation of 150 feet."

There are fifty geysers and over a thousand boiling springs, according to this authority, within fifty miles of each other, and it is evident that these objects must rank as among the most remarkable physical wonders of nature.

These, however, are but a portion of the strange sights to be seen in the Yellowstone Valley. By way of still further enforcing their memory of the expedition, the party were favored, not long since, with an earthquake, the character of which is verified by several witnesses who, at the time of the shock, were fifteen miles apart. We have heard enough now to be satisfied that the region in question must be among the most wonderful of this wonderful central continent of ours, and to suspect that it deserves, in this wise, absolute pre-eminence. Prof. HAYDEN's official report, which, we hope, will not be long delayed, will enable us to arrive at conclusions more positive.

Superintendent Miller for Governor.

The London Insurance Record, of Sept. 29, contains a communication from one CORNELIUS WALFORD, from which we extract the following:

> "In your last there is a reprint of a recent article from the NEW-YORK TIMES, casting some reflections upon the character of the Insurance Superintendent, the Hon. GEO. MILLER, at present a guest amongst us. The NEW-YORK TIMES is one of the best conducted daily journals on that side of the Atlantic. It supports the Republican Party—Mr. MILLER is a Democrat. The State elections are coming on, and Mr. MILLER is not unlikely to be put in nomination for Governor of the State of New-York—a position equal to that of Lord-Lieutenant of a county here. May not a motive for the present attack be discerned in the facts here stated?"

We are informed that Superintendent MILLER was a guest of CORNELIUS WALFORD while in London, and doubtless inspired the above communication. His ingenuity in accounting to the English public for our exposure of his official malfeasance is almost equal to that of Mayor HALL, when he tried to discredit our exposures of the Tammany thieves by telling the public that the City owed [illegible]us $13,000. For the information of Mr. CORNELIUS WALFORD and other men who may have been imposed upon by Superintendent MILLER, we will state that there is no election for Governor of the State of New-York this year, and that Mr. MILLER's name has never been mentioned as a candidate for that office to our knowledge, either by his own or any other political party on this side of the Atlantic. HENRY S. OLCOTT, the trickster and cadet broker, is just as likely to be elected President of the United States as MILLER is to be elected Governor.

MINOR TOPICS.

The young men reformers are determined to do hard work at the polls on election day. They will go to the favorite repeating districts, and keep a sharp look out for the old hands. They have plenty of pluck and energy, and will not run away from TWEED's bullies. We hope these invaluable allies of the Reform cause will respond to the invitation of the Committee of Seventy, which we publish today, and take care to render all their preparations as complete as possible. There is only a fortnight before us—every hour ought to be well spent.

The Detroit Post asks whether "this is a free country," its doubt being suggested by the remarkable order issued by Judge PRATT prohibiting Mrs. MANSFIELD from publishing any of the Fisk correspondence—or even speaking of the contents of those letters, or relating any conversation, &c., &c. Judge PRATT is building up a very pretty reputation for himself, but we almost doubt whether he or any other "Judge" will succeed in suppressing this correspondence. SWEENY's letters are too good to be lost. And there are other names mixed up in the correspondence which will come out in strange company—notably the name of a Republican lawyer, who has lent himself to the schemes of the Ring, and thus sullied a reputation which care for his kinsfolk, if not for himself, should have led him to guard most jealously. "Something will happen before long," as the prophetical almanacs say.

Mr. S. H. WALES has been appointed one of the Committee for distributing relief to the sufferers by the Chicago fire. It is a duty requiring much labor and care, and no man is better qualified to discharge it than Mr. WALES. His skill in business affairs, and his thorough conscientiousness, will render him of invaluable service to the important Committee on which he is to serve.

The English papers have just received the details of the Chicago fire, and unite in urging their readers to continue their liberal subscriptions for the relief of their sufferers. The brief cable dispatches that European journals are in the habit of publishing, gave people on the other side of the Atlantic but a meagre idea of the extent of the calamity; and yet, on the strength of a few lines relating to the fire, the subscriptions called forth from the British public amounted to about fifty thousand pounds, or two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. In no other countries but England and America would such prompt and open-handed generosity have been possible; and whatever antagonism politicians and mousing statesmen may fancy to exist, or may desire to promote, between the two nations, it is evident that the great popular heart beats with a common sympathy in each, and that, in all the nobler impulses of humanity, they are both of the same kith and kin.

WM. M. ELY is a Republican candidate for Assembly in the Binghamton district. There is strong opposition to his election, on the ground that during his two years' service in the Legislature, he has been a facile tool of the Erie-Tammany Ring. The charges against him are explicit, and are not met by him in a satisfactory manner. It is plain that he never ought to have been nominated, and that his best service to his constituents would now be to withdraw. If he will not do this, a large portion of the Republicans of his district are resolved to put another and better candidate in nomination, and their duty to do so will be conceded by all who believe that Republican members of the Legislature should this year be beyond suspicion.

We regret to learn that a fearful fate impends over the unsuspecting head of Mr. GEORGE BANCROFT. It seems that last Winter, when VON MOLTKE marched home after his magnificent triumph in France, Mr. BANCROFT wrote him a letter of felicitation. For this M. VICTOR HUGO proposes to fix him in an everlasting literary pillory. A correspondent of the Independence Belge writes that when M. HUGO read the letter he was transported with fury, and cried out to M. O'SULLIVAN, former Ambassador to the United States at Paris" (sic.) "That BANCROFT, I have a punishment in store for him. I shall hang him on an eternal gallows." He is now doing this in a work in verse called "The Terrible Year," to appear this Winter. The terrible nature of HUGO's threats is to be gathered from the fact that during the siege of Paris he remarked to M. LOUIS BLANC: "If the Prussians enter Paris, they will strive hard to seize and slay me, for if they do not slay me, mark my words, I shall slay them." So, our consolation is that Mr. BANCROFT will go to destruction with the entire German people.

The sermon preached yesterday by Dr. MORGAN, of St. Thomas' Church, of which we give as full a report as our space allows, is a clear vindication of the office of the Press in securing public morality by the exposure of wickedness in high places. While the value and urgency of this duty of the Press is recognized by the best part of the community, it is easy to disregard that stupidity which can see in the fight now waging against corruption in this City only a political or personal quarrel.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

ITALIAN OPERA.

The season of Italian opera, the fashionable season par excellence, will be commenced at the Academy of Music this evening. It is full of promise, artistically; a fact which accounts for the liberal subscription, a larger one, if we mistake not, than was ever bestowed upon a local impresario. "Lucia di Lammermoor," to be sung to-night, will be rendered in accordance with the distribution printed below:

Lucia	Mlle. Christina Nilsson
Edgardo	Signor Brignoli
Ashton	Signor Barre
Arturo	Signor Reichart
Norman	Signor Lyall
Raymond	Signor Coletti
Alise	Mme. Cooney

GERMAN OPERA.

The appearance of Herr WACHTEL in "William Tell" is only second in interest, in the opinion of his myriad admirers, to the tenor's first hearing in this country. The frequenters of the Stadt Theatre are assured that the recital of ROSSINI's masterpiece will be creditable, moreover, to an extent the unaided efforts of the tenor would not guarantee. Miss PAULINE CANISSA is to be Mathilde, and especial pains have been taken to secure a fit rendering of the remaining parts.

OPERA BOUFFE.

Mlle. AIMEE carries on the opera bouffe season at Lina Edwin's Theatre. To-night the receipts of the performance of "La Périchole" are to go to the sufferers by the late disaster at Point-à-Pitre, in Guadelupe. To-morrow and Wednesday the same opera will be sung, and Thursday "Fleur de Thé," a delicious work by LECOQ, will be brought out.

Dramatic.

THE THEATRES TO-NIGHT.

Mr. SOTHERN's appearance at Niblo's will be, of course, the dramatic event of the evening. Miss CUSHMAN's first assumption in many years of Meg Merrilies, at Booth's, and the opening of the new St. James Theatre with an operetta and "variety" troupe, will, however, be incidents of sufficient moment to attract large audiences.

The Wrong Way.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

During twenty-two years I have not failed to vote; but this year I do not think that I shall. I know four other Republicans who feel as I do—utterly discouraged at a repetition of the farce of registering and voting against opponents who miscount and repeat to an extent that virtually disfranchises thousands of our best citizens. Now, if ever, there should be a full vote; so there will be—on the Democratic side! But for us, what hope or inducement is there, while Mayor HALL is suffered to retain the position he has disgraced, and appoint his minions as inspectors of election!

Many of us think that the excitement will subside after election, and no one turned out, no one punished, and none of the stolen money recovered. There seems to be law, but no one with the courage to enforce it. The suspension of OAKEY HALL, TWEED, HILTON, and others, is not only justifiable, but a paramount duty, the execution of which, promptly, on the clear and indubitable proof against them, would have electrified all honest men, and created an enthusiasm that would have swept every rogue from office. Why this timidity when such swift justice (!) is measured out to our petty thieves?

There is a journal in this City which has molded my opinions more than any other in the land. I ceased to take it a month ago, although I still read it to watch its course. The New-York Tribune has disgraced itself by its tardy and lukewarm efforts in fighting the giant frauds of the Ring! It came into the battle as a conscript, not with the earnest enthusiasm of a volunteer. It tried to neutralize the efforts of the TIMES, and, in behalf of Tammany, (as I believe, on my soul,) it tried to divert attention from the far graver matters in hand by a mistimed attack on the Health Officer and Collector MURPHY. Even since it has joined the battle—I leave it to any reader of the Tribune—whether it has shown one-half the energy in attacking the Ring that it displayed in its warfare against Dr. CARNOCHAN and Collector MURPHY. If the Tribune had used its vast influence with the energy and judgment exhibited by Harper's Weekly and the TIMES, the united powers of all three would have stimulated Gov. HOFFMAN and other officials to impeach and suspend the impudent rogues, who will neither resign nor make restitution. No! it did the reverse, and Mr. GREELEY deserted his post at the critical moment to travel through the West with the double object of propitiating votes for his nomination to the Presidency, and sowing seeds of distrust of GRANT in the public mind, in the face of strong evidence on every hand that he is to be renominated.

Will the influence of GREELEY have any great weight in attacking GRANT's Administration? Not, I think, while he permits himself to be considered as a candidate for the White House. This, however, is from the point—I wished to let you know the feeling of depression existing among many Republicans.

OF WHOM I AM ONE.

No. 10 BEEKMAN-PLACE, Saturday, Oct. 21, 1871.

We hope our correspondent will reconsider his determination about not voting. His plan would shut out all hope and prospect of reform. It is the duty of every man in such a contest as this to strive on, even although he may fail. But failure is not probable. Very thorough preparations are being made for preventing false counting and repeating, and our correspondent may rest assured that frauds will at least be immensely reduced in the forthcoming election. In any case, he ought not to become virtually a supporter of the Ring because he fears their rogueries.]

Death of a Brother of the Dramatist Robertson.

Intelligence has been received in England of a fatal accident to Mr. EDWARD SHAFTO ROBERTSON, a younger brother of the late Mr. T. W. ROBERTSON, the dramatist. Mr. SHAFTO ROBERTSON, who had only reached Melbourne a few months ago, where he had accepted a theatrical engagement, was specially selected to join a theatrical company proceeding to India. He had embarked in the steam-ship Avoca, and, while conversing with a companion, Mr. J. B. HOWE, the tragedian, a sudden lurch of the vessel precipitated him through the open hatches of the engine-room on to the steel cylinder, a depth of fourteen feet below. The violence of the blow caused concussion of the brain, and he died three days afterwards. He was only twenty-seven at the time of his death, which occurred on the 1st of September. Mr. ROBERTSON made his first appearance in London, at the Globe Theatre, in October last year.

The Candidates for Assembly in Tioga.

From the Oswego Times.

It is a fact that is well authenticated, that the Tammany Chiefs have been actively at work manipulating Democratic nominations for the Legislature all over the State, with a view to control both branches in their own interest and schemes next Winter. In their list of reliable friends it is confidently asserted that they class the Democratic member of Assembly from the County of Tioga, and have promised to use all possible appliances to secure his election. It does not follow, because a corporation, which counts "Boss" TWEED as one of its chief directors and executive officers, allows one of its old servants to become a candidate for the Legislature, that that servant must become their slave and tool. Still, in the light of attendant circumstances, such action may well be the subject of serious suspicion and alarm. Forewarned is forearmed.

THE COLLECTORSHIP.

The Independent Press on the Tribune's Slanders Against Mr. Murphy.

From the Springfield Republican.

When the New-York Tribune speaks of the Republican as a "supporter" of Collector MURPHY of that City, and as having thrown its "considerable influence" in favor of his retention, it says what is very clearly not true, and what it has no evidence to sustain. The Republican has never spoken of his nomination, save in deprecation; it has never alluded to his continuance in office, save to regret it; it has never discussed the question of his removal, save to urge it. It has said, and does say now, that the more serious charges of the Tribune against his personal and political integrity have not been proven; it has said and does say now that incompetent as he may be as a public officer, corrupt as he may be as a political leader, suspicious as may be his personal and political associations, he is no worse in any respect than many of the men with whom the Tribune is in intimate affiliation, for whom it has no words of condemnation, and between whom and an indignant public it is constantly, directly or indirectly, interposing the broad shield of its character and the potent influence of its support. If the Tribune wants the encouragement of the independent and honest Press of the interior in its efforts to reform New-York politics, it must cease to be an ally of Senator FENTON, and to sustain an organization, many of whose active leaders are notoriously under the pay and in the service, political and personal, of the Tammany Ring. But any way, it must deal with us with something more of candor and truth than it now displays.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

The war between the Tribune and Collector MURPHY, of New-York, continues—the Collector having published a letter in defense of himself against the strictures of the Tribune. It is exceedingly unwise for the leading Republican paper of New-York to make this bitter fight at this time. Those who know of Custom-house affairs at New-York know that there have been no incumbents for years upon whom some one did not make a fight. If MURPHY is open to censure as not having been a perfectly consistent Republican, is the Tribune not open to the same charge? It looks to us very like the pot calling the kettle black.

Albany Evening Journal.

Whatever opinion the public may have of THOMAS MURPHY, it is damaging to his accusers that one of them, HENRY S. OLCOTT took $2,000 from JOHN T. DAILEY to use his influence to procure a cadetship; and another, "Bob" MURRAY, should not by his own showing, be believed under oath. On the other hand, as will be seen by the card which we publish today, Gen. JOHN A. DIX and HENRY A. HURLBUT, two of the most honorable men in the State, certify that in the matter in regard to which MURPHY has been most loudly accused, "neither fraud nor failure" was proven.

Troy Times.

THOMAS MURPHY published a card in the New-York papers of yesterday, in reply to the charges of the Tribune, made some time ago, concerning MURPHY's acts as a contractor and a politician. To us it seems that Mr. MURPHY successfully repels the gravest charges which the Tribune has made against him, and the renewal of them by that paper does not weaken the force of his vindication of his acts.

Troy Daily Whig.

The Tribune makes a point against MURPHY, that he was at one time engaged in a speculation in which TWEED, SWEENY, CONNOLLY and HUGH SMITH were partners. It must be confessed that they are now suspicious characters. But is it not rather too much to ask to believe all the persons who have bought and sold real estate in partnership with them to be rascals. Mr. MURPHY had made a good purchase, but beyond his means. He wanted money. They had it and let him have the benefit of it on condition that they should share in the profit. If it was wrong in Mr. MURPHY to join them in a speculation, is it not equally wrong in the Tribune to accept City advertisements from the Tammany officials. May not the Tribune be influenced in its public course by the fear of losing a good job? We do not know why a business association with the same rascals should be more damaging to Mr. MURPHY than to the Tribune.

THE MISSOURI REPUBLICANS.

Meeting of the State Executive Committee—Official Report of the Proceedings.

HEAD-QUARTERS STATE REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE, ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19, 1871.

A large meeting of the Committee was held this day at the rooms of the Chairman. Several members of the Liberal State Committees were present, with other distinguished Republicans from various sections of the State, and all were invited to participate in the discussions and deliberations of the Committee. Gen. SHEPARD proposed a series of resolutions, which, after discussion and amendment, were unanimously adopted, as follows:

Resolved, That the State Central Committee of the Republican Party of Missouri reiterate their already expressed purpose to do every consistent act possible for the unity, harmony and success of the Republicans of the State, without regard to any past differences or previous divisions.

Resolved, That we fully recognize the right of every voter of the party to his individual preference for candidates, and his individual liberty to advocate such nominations as his judgment and patriotism dictate; but when nominations have been made by party conventions, personal preference should then be sunk in a devotion to party success.

Resolved, That in accordance with the spirit of the resolutions adopted at the mass-meeting of Republicans held at the City Council Chamber in St. Louis on the 18th inst., we once more invite the Liberal Republican State Committee to unite with us, either as a committee or as individuals, in the call for the election of delegates, whenever the time arrives for holding a State Convention, to the end that there may be a united party and but one organization, and that one holding legitimate relations with the National Republican Committees.

Resolved, That the members of the Liberal Committee herein referred to, who desire thus to secure the harmony of the party, be respectfully requested to send their names and Post-office address to the Secretary of this Committee, that they may be seasonably notified of the meeting to arrange the call for a State Convention.

Resolved, That when this Committee adjourn, it be to Tuesday, the 5th day of December next, at 10 o'clock A. M., to consider the subject of a call for a State Convention to elect delegates to the National Convention, and to elect a new State Republican Committee; and the Liberal State Committee, individually or collectively, are invited to meet with us at that time, for consultation upon the proposed call.

Resolved, By the Republican State Committee of the State of Missouri, that, in behalf of the Republicans of the State, they hereby invite, and earnestly solicit, the National Republican Executive Committee to call the next National Convention at St. Louis; and we pledge ourselves to do everything possible to accommodate the Republican delegates of the nation.

The Committee instructed the Chairman to make an official publication of the foregoing proceedings, with a request that all Republican papers in the State give them circulation.

The Conservative Proposition to Repudiate the Public Debt—Letter of Hon. Alex. H. H. Stuart.

Hon. ALEX. H. H. STUART has published a long and able letter setting forth the present condition of the State debt of Virginia, and denouncing the suggestion of leading and influential "Conservatives" that it be repudiated. He says: "I venture to say that whenever that party emblazons the word repudiation on its banners it will receive, as it would deserve, ignominious defeat at the hands of the people of Virginia." And in conclusion, he says:

"The chivalrous repudiators might be able to give some trouble to the helpless women and children. They might for a time despoil the widow and the orphan by refusing—in defiance of their oath to support the State Constitution, which imperatively demands that provision shall be made for the payment of the interest and redemption of the public debt—to make such provision. But how will they defeat the claims of Great Britain and the Northern States? Do these men suppose that the Government of Great Britain would stand idly by and see her subjects defrauded of millions of money? Do they suppose that the Northern States would be indifferent spectators of so gross a wrong done to their citizens? Can they think for a moment that the Government of the United States would sanction such an iniquity? If they do entertain such ideas, the sooner they dismiss them from their minds the better. 'Repudiation,' like 'peaceable secession,' is simply impossible. It will not be tolerated. Means will no doubt be found, within the limits of the Constitution, to enforce the just rights of creditors. Ours would be a very defective Government if such means—peaceful means—could not be found through the agency of judicial tribunals. But if they could not be found, who can doubt that, if necessary, the strong arm—the military power—of the Government would be employed to effectuate the purposes of justice. Those who seek to provoke another collision with the Federal Government may possibly gratify their wishes by attempting repudiation, but those who value the honor and good name of Virginia as a jewel above all price, and wish to preserve peace and harmony in the country, will shun it as they would a pestilence."

Proposed State Convention—A Movement in Behalf of Peace and Good Order.

The Montgomery (Ala.) Journal, a Republican paper, in its issue of Thursday, Oct. 19, says:

"The subject of calling a State Convention of all men who are in favor of burying the political strifes which have caused so much discord and unhappiness among the people of our State, is being discussed just now by some of our leading politicians. We do not know exactly what propositions are involved in the discussion, but we feel satisfied that our leading men ought to lend their influence to the accomplishment of any movement which will result in securing peace and happiness to our whole people. We do not see any necessity for further abuse and denunciation of the Government and the laws. We cannot undo what is done; we cannot bring back that which is lost, nor can we ever hope to gain anything by pursuing any further the strife of politics. Let us all yield to the cries of peace and good order, and if we can secure these great blessings, a grateful people will rise up and call us blessed. The Journal opens its columns to all men who wish to discuss this subject. We are the friend of every peace measure, let it come from what quarter it may."

BRENNAN AND TWEED.

Preparations for the Brennan Demonstration To-Night—Outspoken Denunciation of Tammany and "The Boss."

A meeting of the Presidents and delegates from thirty-four organizations in the City bearing the name and formed in the interests of Sheriff MATTHEW T. BRENNAN, was held yesterday afternoon, at Masonic Hall, Mr. WM. H. BURNS presiding. The meeting was called specially for the purpose of making arrangements for a grand Brennan demonstration, which is to take place to-night instead of on Tuesday night, as was at first proposed. The hall was crowded with the warm personal and political friends of the Sheriff, who are indignant at the trickery, contempt and dissimulation with which they say their popular leader has been treated by TWEED, Justice DOWLING, Mayor HALL and the Tammany party acting under their dictation. Every Ward in the City was represented, and in answer to the call from the Chairman for a report from the delegates, each answer was given with a vim and enthusiasm that was loudly applauded by those assembled. The answer of the Sixth Ward delegation left no doubt that Mr. BRENNAN had lost no popularity or political strength in the Ward where he has so long maintained an undisputed sway.

The Sixth Ward representation in the procession to-night will, no doubt, be of all the most imposing in point of numbers. The Fourth Ward will also be well represented, and TWEED's own Ward, the Seventh, will not be far behind the others, if at all, in the array of men to swell the procession.

As the delegates answered, telling how many men each Ward would probably turn out, and stating the amount of contribution from each Association toward the object—the sums ranging from twenty dollars to fifty and over—they would, at the same time, seize the opportunity to express their feelings.

The denunciations of Tammany Hall as now managed were not only deep but loud. The remarks of each of the delegates were limited in their length, on account of the large number to be heard from, but all were pertinent to the great point at issue, the treatment of Mr. BRENNAN and his friends by Tammany Hall, in not allowing their delegations to have their due force in the Conventions, and expressed their perfect independence of "Boss" TWEED and Tammany Hall.

In answer to a call for the Twelfth Ward, Mr. JAMES T. KING said that 2,000 men would be in line to-night from the Twelfth Ward, and hoped that the Sheriff would sever his connection with Tammany Hall.

Mr. P. MCCABE, in answering for the Fifteenth Ward, said he had received but little aid in any manner from Tammany Hall, and did not care for it. He was surprised to see that Mr. JAMES J. GUMBLETON, who has reasons for gratitude to Mr. BRENNAN, and who boasts that he carries the Fifteenth Ward in his pocket was not present at this meeting.

Mr. GEORGE C. LLOYD, another delegate from the Fifteenth Ward, was particularly denunciatory of Tammany Hall in its action, in forcing upon the Democratic electors of the Fifteenth Ward, the nomination of JAMES RIELY for member of Assembly. He declared that RIELY had always been a Republican, held office under that party, and from representations that he would control the Republican interests in the Ward, was accorded the nomination to the Assembly by WM. M. TWEED, whose action, and also that of DOUGLASS TAYLOR, he bitterly denounced.

A sum of money was contributed sufficiently large, with the 15,000 men whom the meeting confidently expect will participate, to insure a most imposing political street demonstration of the present campaign. Some debate was indulged in as to the proposed route of the procession, and the character of the decorations.

One of the delegates wanted to know from what point on the route Mr. BRENNAN would review the procession. Another delegate proposed (in view of Mr. BRENNAN's relations to Judge DOWLING) that Mr. BRENNAN should be requested to stand upon the steps of the Tombs to receive the cheers of his friends; and he urged that Mr. BRENNAN had a perfect right to stand there. A motion was adopted that a committee wait upon Mr. BRENNAN, and ask him to designate a point on the route of march where he will review the phalanxes of his friends. The following programme and route for the procession was finally agreed upon. The thirty-four Brennan Associations will assemble in front of Masonic Hall, in West Thirteenth-street, between Fourth-avenue and Third-avenue, at 8½ P. M. But one transparency will be used in the procession. This will be carried at the head of the line, and will bear an inscription expressive of devotion to the political fortunes of MATTHEW T. BRENNAN. Badges will be provided for the men in line, and the whole procession will be lighted up by calcium lights placed at intervals. The route will be along Thirteenth-street to Fourth-avenue, around Union-square to Broadway, down Broadway to Chambers-street, to Centre, through Centre-street to Canal, Canal-street to the Bowery, and up the Bowery to Cooper Institute, where the procession will be dismissed. Mr. W. H. BURNS will act as Grand Marshal, will be mounted, and will be assisted by numerous aids.

At the conclusion of the meeting our reporter had conversations with the delegates in regard to the nature of the breach with Tammany Hall, and what will be the probable action of Mr. BRENNAN and his friends.

Mr. WM. H. BURNS, who had acted as Chairman of the meeting, said that Mr. BRENNAN and his followers had taken a position at present strongly in opposition to TWEED and Tammany Hall, and would fight them to the last. The fight began in the Sixth Ward, he said, where Justice DOWLING, a man whom BRENNAN had taken out of the dust, and had helped to power and position, had endeavored to supplant him as the political leader of that Ward, not by force of his (DOWLING's) own popularity, but through WM. M. TWEED, the dictator of Tammany Hall.

BRENNAN's delegations, which were the regular ones, endorsed by the primary inspectors, appointed by the Tammany Hall General Committee, were forced out of the Fourth Senatorial Convention and men known to be the friends of BRENNAN were singled out in every instance and left in the cold in making nominations.

Justice DOWLING in order to carry his point had gathered together some of the most disreputable men in the City, persons who had been arrested and tried for criminal offences, and others who if not convicted criminals were professional repeaters. Fatty WELCH and a gang of repeaters from the Eighth Ward had been used by DOWLING to defeat the will of respectable Democratic electors in the Fourth Senatorial Convention. They had no right to vote in the district on the day of election, unless allowed to do so by Mayor HALL's inpectors of election. DENNIS BURNS, Sheriff BRENNAN's choice for the Assembly from the Second District, was defeated in getting the nomination, and JAMES DUNPHY, DOWLING's choice, was run in his place. BRENNAN's friends had, indeed, been treated with indifference in other districts. At the back of DOWLING stood TWEED, and it was hinted that DOWLING held a whip over him in the case of the voucher thieves. HALL, he said, had lied to BRENNAN, relative to the inspectors, telling a story about them in connection with TWEED, which the latter, using remarks in no way complimentary to HALL, emphatically denied to Sheriff BRENNAN. All these things and much more might be brought clearly before the public, in good time. BRENNAN would show his strength to-night, and Tammany Hall would be made to shake before his power. There was not a more popular Democrat in the City than Sheriff BRENNAN; he had not enriched himself by robbing the people, and a word of reproach could not be uttered against him. His friends followed him, not simply because he was a Democrat, but because they loved him for his honesty and sincerity.

Mr. LLOYD, who also conversed with the TIMES reporter, said that he had been pleased with the utterances of the TIMES against the Ring. The sentiments expressed in the journal were what had been shut up in the hearts of many in the ranks of Tammany Hall, who were afraid to give voice to them, because they might lose their places by so doing. He wanted to see Sheriff BRENNAN free of the whole clique, and was glad that an opportunity had now arisen.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Senator CONKLING will speak in Elmira on Friday evening next.

ANDREW A. SILL is the Democratic nominee for Assembly in Livingston County.

Secretary BOUTWELL is to lecture in Boston, on Thursday evening, on the "Present Questions Affecting Public Prosperity."

It is explained that that Democratic Congressman up in New-Hampshire refuses to frank his wife's letters because he has no wife.

The official Prohibition vote in seventy-one counties of Ohio is 2,454. It is just that number of votes thrown away.

JOHN MCLEAN, cashier of the Fulton County Bank, has been nominated for Assembly by the Republicans of Fulton and Hamilton, in place of JOHN R. BERRY, declined.

Hon. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW is to speak in Owego, on Tuesday, Oct. 31: in Corning, on Wednesday, Nov. 1, and in Hornellsville on Thursday, Nov. 2.

It is authoritatively and positively announced in Indiana that Ex-Congressman WILLIAM S. HOLMAN will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of that State next year.

The Democratic State Central Committee of Ohio is to hold a meeting in Columbus, on Friday, Nov. 24. The call appeals to every member to be present, in person if possible, otherwise by proxy, as business of importance is to be transacted in relation to the campaign of 1872.

By request of the National Labor Congress at its August session in St. Louis, the National Committee postponed the Convention of the National Labor Reform Party, in Columbus, Ohio, to nominate candidates for President and Vice-President, from the third Wednesday of October, 1871, to the third Wednesday in February next.

WILLIAM MEAD, Democratic candidate for Assembly in the Third District of Westchester County, has declined, saying he cannot make the necessary sacrifice, and earnestly trusts that the District Committee will place in the field some honest, faithful and true-hearted Democrat, unconnected with the Tammany Ring, who will win the suffrages of a majority of the people of the District.

The Providence Journal (Senator ANTHONY's paper,) asserts that to insure the vote of Rhode Island for the Fifteenth Amendment the first draft was changed so as to avoid all interference with that State's peculiar provision relating to the suffrage, the word "nativity" being struck out and the words "race, color or previous condition of servitude" substituted.

A grand Republican mass-meeting is to be held in Syracuse on Thursday, under the auspices of the Republican County Committee, of Onondaga, and the State Committee, co-operating with the Young Men's State Republican Association. Hon. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, Gen. CHARLES H. VAN WYCK, Ex Gov. BUTLER G. NOBLE and other eminent speakers will address the meeting.

The Portland (Me.) Press says: "It is an astounding fact that notwithstanding the enormity of the New-York frauds and their full exposure many weeks since, no official implicated has yet resigned or been removed. The thieves are in as full possession of the City as they were on the day when the TIMES made its wonderful disclosures."

Speaking of the Young Men's Municipal Reform Association in this City the Cincinnati Gazette says: "If these young men, and others like them, had attended to City politics in times past as carefully as they are now doing, TWEED & Co. would never have gained their present positions. It is easier to prevent than cure rascality, but even New-York corruption has not become incurable."

Hon. ABNER LEWIS has written a letter declining the temperance nomination for Governor of Minnesota tendered him by a meeting in St. Paul, which, he says, if the several reports are reliable, "was no packed convention, but a spontaneous uprising of the hosts of temperance from Houston to Pembina, and from Wabashaw to Pipestone, which resulted in the assembling of fifteen living men, gathered from the remotest parts of Minneapolis and St. Paul."

Mr. JOHN H. KENNARD, of New-Orleans, has written a letter resigning his position in the Louisiana State Democratic Central Committee, saying that a careful observation of the late developments throughout the country, together with a late personal visit to several Northern, Middle and Western States, has thoroughly convinced him that the organization of the Democratic Party has lost its usefulness, and must be replaced by a new organization, which will attract to it all lovers of an honest administration of the laws, State and Federal, from all parties.

Hon. A. S. COLYAR addressed a large meeting in Nashville, Tenn., on Thursday night. A dispatch to the Knoxville Chronicle says that he denounced the Secession Democracy, and said that the extreme Democrats would bring on another war, and that he was very severe on the Ku-klux, and predicted if their outrages continue, martial law will follow. He thought that no Democrat could be elected President, and declared himself opposed to the Democrats making any nomination for the office.

The St. Louis Democrat, thinking the next National Republican Convention should be held in that city, says: "As the case stands, it belongs to the valley of the Mississippi, and should, therefore, come to the metropolis of the valley States. We invite to this subject the special consideration of the National Republican Executive Committee, and assure them that Western men are in earnest on this matter. The Convention of 1868 ought to have come here. An injustice will have been done should that of 1872 be also denied us.

LOCAL POLITICS.

The Working Men's Party.

A meeting of the General Committee of the Working Men's Political Party was held last night at the Germania Assembly Rooms. Mr. THEODORE H. BANKS was appointed Chairman, in absence of the President, and Mr. JOHN HALBERT Secretary. Several nominations for members of Assembly were made. Following is the list of the nominations thus far made: Second District—Michael Ferguson, Crispins; Third District—Peter Daly, Varnishers and Polishers; Fourth District—Dennis S. Griffin, Stair-builders; Fifth District—J. W. R. Hill, Carpenters; Ninth District—R. W. H. Greame, Stair-builders: Eleventh District—J. P. Kellett, Painters; Sixteenth District—Theodore H. Banks, Painters; Twentieth District—John McMackin, Painters. The complete ticket, including Senatorial nominations, is to be ready for ratification at the mass-meeting to-morrow night, at Cooper Institute, which, according to the announcement, will be addressed by many prominent trades-unionists and labor reformers. It is proposed to nominate Mr. IRA B. DAVIS to run against TWEED in the Fourth Senatorial District.

Eighth Ward German-American Association.

At a meeting of the Eighth Ward German-American Citizens' Club last night at No. 69 Vandam-street, the nominations of Judge BARRETT, Judge DALY and Gen. SIGEL were enthusiastically indorsed. The name of Mr. AUSTIN LEAKS was mentioned and favorably received as candidate for the Assembly.

Beware.

From the Sunday News.

A question more important than any of mere partisan significance is to be decided at the next election. The preservation of the purity of the ballot-box is surely of more importance than partisan success, if for no other reason than because it is only by the fair and legitimate use of the elective franchise that the party truly representative of popular sentiment can achieve ascendency. It is a fact to be deplored, but not to be ignored, that, for years past, an organized and systematic formula of fraud has been in operation to defeat the intentions of honest men in this City. Intrigue, trickery, and dishonesty have prevailed throughout all the phases of political campaigning, beginning at the primaries, extending to the polls, and entering into the legislative or executive action of the men elected to administer the municipal government.

But the mission of reform has been inaugurated, and the paramount purpose of that mission is the purification of the ballot box. That purpose accomplished, and the election of good and true men to official positions will naturally follow. Therefore we say that the most important task for the reformers to achieve is reformation in all these details that involve the exercise of the elective franchise. The victory at all hazards must be won—the victory of honest votes, the victory of the real voice of the people over the tricksters that have hitherto prevailed at the polls by violence and fraud.

The vote of an American citizen is his property—more valuable to him than houses, lands or money. To take from him that vote so as to render it inoperative as an expression of his will, is no less a wrong than to rifle his coffers or despoil him of his lands. If it be lawful to protect oneself, vi et armis, from the assassin, the burglar and the thief, it is lawful to protect with arms and force, if necessary, that most precious property, the elective franchise. The citizen's vote is his talisman; it gives him assurance while its virtue remains, that he enjoys the blessings of a republican form of government. Standing at the polls with his ballot in his hand, he is an embodiment of the principle of self-government; and whoever by fraud or violence seeks to cancel the power and meaning of that vote, commits the worst of crimes against the individual, and against the principles he represents.

The people, we are convinced, are resolved that there shall be free and fair elections henceforward in this City. There are rumors that Tammany, in its desperation, is preparing with more than ordinary energy, all its vast and complicated machinery of fraud to defeat the Reform movement. It will go hard with those that attempt to work that machinery upon next election day; hard with the tools, harder with the masters. Every act of fraud and violence will be punished—first in the persons of the immediate perpetrators, and will then be traced, indefatigably and unrelentingly, to the instigators, and woe to them when they stand revealed as pollutors and robbers of the votes of honest men. The Reform Party pledges itself to secure a fair election; and, in good time, the stuffers, the repeaters, the shoulder-hitters and their masters have fair warning.

Is This True?

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

For more than ten years I have been a reader, admirer, and in my small way a defender of your paper; have taken a real interest and a sort of personal pride in your success, and especially in your present huge fight with crime and corruption. "Nevertheless, I have a few things against thee." My present grievance, however, is not against you alone, but the daily Press generally, and it is this—the indiscriminate praise of certain candidates for public favor as artists, especially in the musical line of art. Now no one knows better than yourself, however thankless the task of saying so may be, that there is very little real critical judgment in community about music and musical performances; and that singers and players are to a very great extent simply affairs of fashion. The person who does not bow down and worship the reigning and fashionably indorsed musical favorite, or who fails to echo "exquisite" and "divine," whenever the favored name is pronounced, is looked upon as a barbarian—a heretic and traitor to "good society." It is also true that this rage of popularity is often brought about by a certain position in society, or a lucky hit, rather than from any real artistic excellence, and often is simply a "gotten up" thing. The heralding trumpet is blown in the most fulsome manner, regardless of either taste or truth; all the tricks of the trade are brought into requisition to secure a first success and loud applause, and, lastly, the candidate for favor must be "written up" for the Press the next morning.

Now, Mr. Editor, the Press is becoming more and more the educator of the people. They look to it not only for information but also trust to a great extent its judgment in matters which are beyond their knowledge; and the TIMES has for the most part been found reliable and true to its mission as an instructor, but when it lends its editorial page to the unqualified commendation of such musical performances as the series of concerts which closed on Saturday afternoon at Steinway Hall, I think it misleads public sentiment, and does an injury to public taste.

I would not throw a straw in the way of the lady who made her debut in those concerts. I have no doubt she is an estimable lady, and entirely worthy of the encouragement of her numerous friends; but she has placed herself before the public as an artist, and not only so, but she would have us believe that she presents to us the most finished specimens of musical art now to be found in the whole world, and the Press would lead the people to believe that she does it.

A qualified and unbiased judge would gladly accord to the lady a voice of considerable sweetness, power and compass, and that she executes florid passages with facility and grace; on the other hand, her style is crude and aimless, both her intervals and sustained notes are untrue, her pronunciation faulty, her manner upon the platform and some of her selections offensively ad captandum. The public may not be to blame for applauding such things, but the Press is certainly to blame for leading the public to suppose that it has listened to an artist; for it fixes a low and false standard in people's minds, and leads them to admire and applaud the same thing again instead of desiring something better.

No such laudatory notices of Mme. PAREPA-ROSA have ever appeared in the papers, and yet who that has any reputation as a musical critic would damage it by saying that he considered Mrs. MOULTON the superior artist? The idea is too absurd to be entertained for a moment. And yet the trumpet is blown and the people invited to take notice that in hearing the one they are listening to an artist next in excellence to the renowned MALIBRAN, and of course they should correct their standard of musical taste accordingly, while the other is spoken of in the ordinary terms of musical criticism, the marvellous perfection of her performances unnoticed in any detail, or the methods by which she achieves it.

The same might be said of the Dolby Ballad Troupe. They came almost unheralded, and gave a series of concerts which were perfection of their kind, to which musical people went, and which they thoroughly enjoyed. They heard beautiful voices, trained according to the best schools, producing as artistic results "marvelously sweet music" without orchestral aid, or any buffoonery or clap-trap, by using just those means and methods which so few of our singers know how to use, or even know the necessity of. Yet the Dolby concerts, as a whole, were very little mentioned in the papers. Mr. SANTLEY has a reputation, so it was incumbent to speak of him, otherwise people would not think the critics knew their business—but to point out anything by which people would be educated or guided in forming a just estimate of their merits—almost nothing of the kind appeared.

I beg pardon, Mr. Editor, for occupying so much of your valuable space, but thus much has been said because I think it needs to be said. I have no ax to grind. I never spoke a word with any one of the persons I have mentioned, nor have they given me tickets to their concerts, but as one who wishes to see a higher musical taste cultivated among our concert-going people, and one who believes the press can help to do it, I speak. M.

Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper is ahead of all its competitors in its illustrations of the Chicago fire. They are excellent.—Sun.

Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper contains several very spirited sketches from the terrible scenes of the Chicago fire. A vivid idea is conveyed by these pictures of the terror and confusion of the people, and many of the more prominent incidents of the great conflagration are presented more clearly than could be done by any description. The other pictures in this number are good, as usual.—World.

The Largest Workshop of the Body is the liver, whose office it is to withdraw the bile from the blood: when this important organ does not act the skin assumes a yellow appearance, and generally a sick headache sets in, with chilly sensations, and cold hands and feet, accompanied with loss of appetite. The system becomes clogged, the machinery does not work well, and both mind and body are disordered, the afflicted becoming cross and fretful, finding fault with everything around them. To any person in this condition Dr. D. JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS are recommended; by their stimulating action the liver soon recovers its healthy tone, and is enabled to perform its proper functions. Costiveness is cured, and all the aggravating symptoms of biliousness removed. Sold everywhere.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE CAUSE AND CURE OF CONSUMPTION.—The primary cause of Consumption is derangement of the digestive organs. This derangement produces deficient nutrition and assimilation. By assimilation, I mean that process by which the nutriment of the food is converted into blood, and thence into the solids of the body. Persons with digestion thus impaired, having the slightest predisposition to pulmonary disease, or if they take cold, will be very liable to have Consumption of the lungs in some of its forms; and I hold that it will be impossible to cure any case of Consumption without first restoring a good digestion and healthy assimilation. The very first thing to be done is to cleanse the stomach and bowels from all diseased mucus and slime which is clogging these organs so that they cannot perform their functions, and then rouse up and restore the liver to a healthy action. For this purpose, the surest and best remedy is Schenck's Mandrake Pills. These Pills clean the stomach and bowels of all the dead and morbid slime that is causing disease and decay in the whole system. They will clear out the liver of all diseased bile that has accumulated there, and arouse it up to a new and healthy action, by which natural and healthy bile is secreted.

The stomach, bowels, and liver are thus cleansed by the use of Schenck's Mandrake Pills; but there remains in the stomach an excess of acid, the organ is torpid and the appetite poor. In the bowels, the lacteals are weak, and requiring strength and support. It is in a condition like this that Schenck's Seaweed Tonic proves to be the most valuable remedy ever discovered. It is alkaline, and its use will neutralize all excess of acid, making the stomach sweet and fresh; it will give permanent tone to this important organ, and create a good, hearty appetite, and prepare the system for the first process of a good digestion, and ultimately make good, healthy, living blood. After this preparatory treatment, what remains to cure most cases of Consumption is the free and persevering use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup. The Pulmonic Syrup nourishes the system, purifies the blood, and is readily absorbed into the circulation, and thence distributed to the diseased lungs. There it ripens all morbid matters, whether in the form of abscesses or tubercles, and then assists nature to expel all the diseased matter in the form of free expectoration, when once it ripens. It is then by the great healing and purifying properties of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, that all ulcers and cavities are healed up sound, and my patient is cured.

The essential thing to be done in curing Consumption is to get up a good appetite and a good digestion, so that the body will grow in flesh and get strong. If a person has diseased lungs, a cavity or abscess there, the cavity cannot heal, the matter cannot ripen, so long as the system is below par. What is necessary to cure is a new order of things, a good appetite, a good nutrition, the body to grow in flesh and get fat; then nature is helped, the cavities will heal, the matter will ripen and be thrown off in large quantities, and the person regain health and strength. This is the true and only plan to cure Consumption, and if a person is very bad, if the lungs are not entirely destroyed, or even if one lung is entirely gone, if there is enough vitality left in the other to heal up, there is hope.

I have seen many persons cured with only one sound lung live and enjoy life to a good old age. This is what Schenck's Medicines will do to cure Consumption. They will clean out the stomach, sweeten and strengthen it, get up a good digestion, and give nature the assistance she needs to clear the system of all the disease that is in the lungs, whatever the form may be.

It is important that, while using Schenck's Medicines, care should be exercised not to take cold; keep in doors in cool and damp weather; avoid night air, and take outdoor exercise only in a genial and warm sunshine.

I wish it distinctly understood that when I recommend a patient to be careful in regard to taking cold while using my medicines, I do so for a special reason. A man who has but partially recovered from the effects of a bad cold is far more liable to a relapse than one who has been entirely cured, and it is precisely the same in regard to Consumption. So long as the lungs are not perfectly healed, just so long is there imminent danger of a full return of the disease. Hence it is that I so strenuously caution pulmonary patients against exposing themselves to an atmosphere that is not genial and pleasant. Confirmed consumptives' lungs are a mass of sores, which the least change of atmosphere will inflame. The grand secret of my success with my medicines consists in my ability to subdue inflammation instead of provoking it, as many of the Faculty do. An inflamed lung cannot with safety to the patient be exposed to the biting blasts of Winter or the chilling winds of Spring or Autumn. It should be carefully shielded from all irritating influences. The utmost caution should be observed in this particular, as without it a cure under almost any circumstances is an impossibility.

The person should be kept on a wholesome and nutritious diet, and all the medicines continued until the body has restored to it the natural quantity of flesh and strength.

I was myself cured by this treatment of the worst kind of Consumption, and have lived to get fat and hearty these many years, with one lung mostly gone. I have cured thousands since, and very many have been cured by this treatment whom I have never seen.

About the 1st of October I expect to take possession of my new building at the northeast corner of Sixth and Arch streets, where I shall be pleased to give advice to all who may require it.

Full directions accompany all my remedies, so that a person in any part of the world can be readily cured by a strict observance of the same.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

During the week ending Saturday, Oct. 21, the auctions held at the Exchange have not only been more numerous than usual, but the success achieved at the sales has been above the average, and the general result of business as indicating a firm and healthy market, better than that of any week during the present season. The total value of City real estate sold has been $352,575 as against $62,225 for the week ending Oct. 14. In the above total the property reported as sold by LYNCH & CAMP at the Exchange on Thursday, namely: Twenty lots with water front on Harlem River, between One Hundred and Nineteenth and One Hundred and Twentieth streets, knocked down for $70,300—is not included, for we have since learned that no transfer of title was made. Should the same success characterize the proposed sales of this week as was met with last, activity will follow, and a really good class of property will be brought forward and placed upon the market. The suburban sales held during the week, all of which have been reported in detail, have also been more largely attended than of late, and most of the lots offered disposed of at good and highly satisfactory figures. In regard to the Newark sale held on Thursday, and referred to on Saturday last, we have since been informed that some forty lots were sold at prices ranging from $450 to $650 per lot, a better result than was anticipated. The sale was continued until late in the afternoon, and then adjourned until to-morrow, Thursday, when it will be resumed. The bidding on Tuesday was spirited throughout. A. D. MELLICK, JR., & BRO., of this City, officiated as auctioneers. The total value of suburban property sold during the week amounts to about $200,000. Brooklyn real estate continues dull and quiet, with nothing of interest to report. The list of important recent transfers and the record of recent leases will be published to-morrow.

THIS WEEK'S BUSINESS.

For the present week several of the sales to occur are noticeable, particularly that at the Exchange to-morrow, when E. H. LUDLOW & Co. will offer at auction a very extensive line of specially valuable City real estate, both improved and unimproved, in fact it is but seldom, in the history of the market, that such an attractive lot of first-class property is presented at a single sale for the consideration of investors, and the result of the transaction, be it favorable or unfavorable, cannot fail to exert an influence upon business. The sale of lots located on Washington Heights and Broadway, by MULLER, WILKINS & Co., on Thursday, is equally noticeable, and the affair is looked forward to by all interested in real estate as one of the events of the week. The following is a list, however, of all the auctions to take place, at which property, as noted, will be offered by the auctioneers named on the days respectively specified:

To-morrow, Tuesday, Oct. 24.

First Mortgage Bonds

MOBILE & MONTGOMERY

RAILROAD COMPANY,

Indorsed by State of Alabama.

PRINCIPALL AND INTEREST

PAYABLE IN GOLD.

After a careful examination, we confidently recommend these bonds, because—

1. They are a first mortgage upon a road already completed and in successful operation, with net earnings, well established for several years, at MUCH MORE THAN ENOUGH TO PAY THE INTEREST on all the bonds authorized to be issued.

2. The proceeds of these bonds will complete an extension of fifteen miles of heavy work from Tensas into the City of Mobile, DISPENSING WITH THE PRESENT STEAM-BOAT SERVICE, CURTAILING EXPENSE AND INCREASING EFFICIENCY OF THE ROAD.

3. The road is 182 miles long. Entire mortgage, $2,500,000, or a little over $13,000 PER MILE; COST OF ROAD OVER $30,000 PER MILE.

4. It connects MOBILE and MONTGOMERY, and is a link in the route from NEW-ORLEANS to NEW-YORK, and also between the GULF and LOUISVILLE, by the insured completion of the road from MONTGOMERY north to DECATUR, being built by the LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD COMPANY, who thus display their estimate of the value of the route.

5. They are indorsed and guaranteed by the STATE OF ALABAMA, the value of whose indorsement has been recently tested and fully established.

6. Some of the most careful investors in ENGLAND and this country, after investigation, have bought these bonds for permanent investment, so that now only about $150,000 are on the market, which are for sale at present at 95 and ACCRUED INTEREST, by

OF THE SEVEN PER CENT. FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA RAILROAD COMPANY,

These bonds are the only mortgage lien on the railway and rolling stock of the corporation, and are for less than $13,000 per mile.

The gross receipts of the Company for 1870 amounted to $1,468,340 53-100; operating expenses and renewals, $916,095 82; showing a profit of $552,244 71, or $335,244 71 in excess of its annual interest of Seven per Cent. on $3,100,000 first mortgage bonds.

The South Carolina Railway is one of the earliest-built railways in the United States; its affairs have ever been managed with care and integrity, and the present condition of the property is that of complete restoration. TO THE HOLDERS OF THE SEVERAL CLASSES OF BONDS OF THE JACKSON, LANSING AND SAGINAW RAILROAD COMPANY.

Whereas, By an agreement between the Michigan Central and the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Companies, the road of the last-named Company is to be worked by the Michigan Central in future; and by the terms of that agreement, and for the purpose of extending the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Road northerly, a new and consolidated mortgage is to be put upon the road for such an amount as will provide both a sufficient fund for the extension of the road as far north as the Straits of Mackinac, and also for the exchange of all outstanding bonds under previous mortgages, for the bonds under the new mortgage of a similar kind; that, by the terms of the agreement, as may be done under the laws of Michigan, the Michigan Central Railroad Company may make its own bonds, to be secured by the same mortgage as the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw, and issue the same in lieu of those of the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw, if it should prefer so to do. That whether it does so or not will depend upon the action of those who hold the several classes of bonds already issued under the several mortgages upon the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Road; that if the holders of these bonds shall elect to exchange them for the bonds of the Michigan Central, secured by a single first mortgage on the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw, then it will issue its own bonds for the extension of the road, and also for exchange for the outstanding bonds of the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Company, and otherwise not; and in order that it may determine whether it will or will not issue its own bonds under said mortgage, it is necessary that the holders shall signify, at an early day, their disposition in the matter.

The bonds of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, to be issued, will be in sums of one thousand dollars each, and dated Nov. 1, 1871, payable in twenty-five years, interest at eight per cent., free of Government tax, payable semi-annually at its office in Boston.

When exchange is made, it will be at par, interest to be adjusted.

Therefore, all holders of the bonds of the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Company desirous of making the exchange as herein provided, will please notify ISAAC LIVERMORE, Treasurer of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, at Boston, on or before the 10th day of December, 1871.

CITY REFORM.

The Abuses that Need Correction—Sermon by Rev. W. F. Morgan at St. Thomas' Church.

A sermon was preached yesterday morning at St. Thomas' Church, Fifth-avenue, by Rev. W. F. MORGAN, on "City Reform." He premised his address by saying: It is no more than just that in resuming their pulpits after the customary Summer recess the ministers of Christ in this City should in some wise recognize and applaud the great work of municipal reform which has been inaugurated and vigorously carried on by the Press. It is greatly to the honor of the Press, and will tend greatly to its influence, that it has met a tremendous evil, with tremendous and unfaltering energy. I propose to repeat this morning a discourse prepared and delivered nearly seven years ago, urging the importance of this very work. Prepared so long ago, it can now have no personal reference, which if possible I would always avoid in this holy place. The text was, Zephaniah, i., 12: "And it shall come to pass at that time that I will search Jerusalem with candles, and punish the men that are settled on their lees; that say to their heart, The Lord will not do good, neither will He do evil." The preacher said: I propose to make the ancient example of Jewish municipal guilt the topic of a few observations. The pastors of this City have been urged to unite with leading civilians and philanthropists in an effort to rescue this vast community from misrule and from the neglect of those interests which are vital to its health, its morals and its general advancement. Our religion is not too narrow to admit of any topic which relates to the suppression of ungodliness or to the happiness and elevation of our fellow-men. The ministers and pastors of the Church were never ordained to the work of directing or denouncing the administration of public affairs, or of intermeddling with those local evils and transient immoralities which are begotten of partisanship and political corruption. But the business of the Christian pastor is to preach the Gospel in its fullness, and the Gospel when truly preached is salt and leaven and light. They are to use their influence to reach and overcome great wrongs in this world, not by direct assault, not by special intemperance, but by the annunciation and enforcement of eternal truth. Never since the founding of the City has one Sunday passed during which the Church did not lift up a protest and remonstrance against the very evils which have become so flagrant. They have for years been seeking the overthrow of those enemies against humanity and against God which so beset and appall us. The healthy feeling and moral tone which still survive among us are the legitimate results of Christian truth and doctrine steadily enforced. Keep forever sounding, whether men hear, or whether they forbear, aye, of a voice not to be drowned, of an authority not to be superseded by the multitudinous influx of strangers or the overflowings of ungodly men. The preacher proceeded to remark, first, that what God decreed as the punishment of Jerusalem should be the enlightened instinct, the religious and the inexorable law of every city not yet completely surrendered to its enemies. It should be searched with candles. The entire municipal management and economy should be exposed. Its trusts and its responsibilities should be kept openly in view and scrutinized. Its agents and exactors should be held to a strict account, and its whole administration through all departments, from the highest to the humblest, should be subjected to the vigilance and the inquisition of an unclosed eye. Even when all things look fair and safe, the City should be searched with candles; and every institution that is even governed by a few should be brought beneath the broad glare of candles, not as an evidence of suspicion or distrust, but as a safeguard against temptation. What are more common in this City than breaches of trust, false entries, purloinings, defalcations, and a host of crimes connected with posts of confidence, which are also posts of opportunity? Why do men, who come with the best characters and credentials, and who for a time fulfill every expectation and every requirement in their respective positions—why do they fall? It is because the candles of watchfulness and careful investigation have been suffered to go out; because the directors and overseers were settled on their lees, indolent, indifferent, careless, trusting to appearances, content with seeming advantage, unwilling to fasten an eagle eye, or to go into a sharp calculation, or bring down patient comparison upon figures and balances and settlements, where error might lurk. Carelessness has been as criminal as crime itself; those who have left open the door of temptation are as guilty and as worthy of punishment as the tempted. It is, however, with great public traits that we are more especially concerned today—with official purity and honesty, which, in the midst of opportunity and vehement solicitations, are so likely to be overborne. I do not wish to cast random imputations upon any man or any set of men, and least of all do I intend to characterize all the existing authorities of this Metropolis as destitute of principle. There are some who are eminently faithful, while the others are outrageously unfaithful. The text indicates the only remedy against fraud and public plunder and the systematic perversion of great responsibilities, and that remedy is the flashing of light upon stealthy offenders, a search with candles into base transactions, and an ignominious exposure of the name of the men who are so barren of principle and so dead to shame that they dare to promote their own interests when they were appointed to advance the welfare of nearly a million of souls, regarding their own pockets and their own prosperity, while filth and malarious influences, epidemics and social demoralization are disfiguring the glory and blighting the reputation of our magnificent City. I will search Jerusalem with candles, said God, and it is the keynote and the watchword of a reformation which alone can shield us from infinite disaster. I thank God that such a watchword has been sounded and such a search begun. Let them be continued. If public servants are honest and capable they have no occasion to dread even a microscopic scrutiny; if they are not let them be branded and stripped of all power to deceive and injure and destroy their fellow-citizens. Again, an awakened and rightly-instructed public spirit is required that not only public magistrates and functionaries may be held to a close and thorough inspection, but that all the apparent or possible sources of discomfort, disease, wretchedness and crime are inquired into thoroughly and conscientiously. Magistrates are but men, and even if good men and true, are not always wise, and their term of service, with their brief authority, soon expires. The ills which afflict a community like this are very often such as would baffle the efforts and the best energies of any magistracy, even if every member were endowed with wisdom and ghostly strength. My friends, if candles were placed in your hands, and you were commissioned to search into the remote or the immediate causes from which proceed the train of horrors which darken and enthral this island, you would cease from reproaches, so far as they were leveled at other men. For what would you discover? All the gross and unnatural degradation of Sodom, all the refined sensuality of Athens, all the gluttony and licentiousness of Rome, blended with shameless prostitution, intemperance, debauchery, gambling and crime above ground, while underground you would find the sediment and clotted residences of all the sin which could drip through the service of a wicked city. The candles of public interest and anxiety have not flung their light into these recesses, and thus year after year the darkness has deepened and the contagion has spread. As an illustration consider for one moment the inevitable corruptions and miseries of tenement-houses! Lastly, as surely as light follows day so does punishment follow indifference; where great iniquities and crimes in a city demand removal at the hands of its inhabitants. The text states that the punishment is not leveled at guilty rulers, but is aimed at the people who tolerate crime, who fold their arms and close their eyes, while the city is rushing on to destruction. It is aimed at the men who suffer the wicked to rule, and who prefer their ease and their selfish indulgence beyond the honor and well-being of a great community. I call upon you, therefore, as you value not merely the temporal happiness, but the eternal welfare of souls—as you value your own peace and security, to unite in this grand effort at reform; give it your perfect sympathy, your strongest support, and be resolved to purge this City and make it again attractive in its moral aspects as it is in the beauty of its situation, the vastness of its wealth, the grandeur of its prospects, the liberality of its citizens.

Providence and the Conflagrations—Sermon by Rev. O. B. Frothingham.

Rev. O. B. FROTHINGHAM yesterday preached a sermon upon "Providence and the Conflagrations," at Lyric Hall, Sixth-avenue, between Forty-first and Forty-second streets. Providence, said Mr. FROTHINGHAM, has no pets; there are no favorites with God, no chosen people; the universe is organized for all, not for each. God is no sentimentalist; He has a plentiful store of scourges well knotted, and they are not spared. If men will not observe the rules of health, if they will not drain their cities, or sweep their streets, if they will play with kerosene and petroleum; if they will reject the administration of their municipal affairs; if they will allow thieves to get control of the public revenues; if they will not learn how to furl their sails till the gale has stripped their masts; if they will not study geology till after the earthquake; if they will not learn how to build till the fire has passed over their cities and reduced them to ashes; then the gale, the earthquake and the fire will do their work. We would not gracefully remove slavery, and so we had the thunder and lightning of civil war. We would not attend to our municipal concerns, and now it will be fortunate of we escape revolution. The process of education is long and difficult. God has not yet dismissed the rod from the school-room. The preacher adduced from these arguments a strong lesson upon the necessity of obedience to moral laws.

POLITICAL DUTY.

Sermon by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage at the Brooklyn Tabernacle.

In the Presbyterian Tabernacle on Schermerhorn-street, Brooklyn, Rev. T. DE WITT TALMAGE preached yesterday morning on "Political Duty." His text was the thirty-second and thirty-fourth verses, inclusive, of the nineteenth chapter of Acts: The worshipers of Diana, said he, are dead, and her temple gone to dust, but the American people have raised in her place another idol, "political partisanship;" and, considering our superior civilization, I think the Ephesian idolatry was not so abominable in any way as this absurd idolatry, which, unless arrested, is destined to destroy this country. So completely have politics got into the hands of thieves that men today are not ashamed to stand in our high places and tell us that all our rulers are alike involved in common guilt, and that we must submit in humility to their abominable control. They tell us that now it is Republican and now Democrat who has got his hand in the public treasury, and that the degree of criminality is only to be measured by the opportunity afforded for its successful operation. However true this may be, when levelled at the men now in power, it is not true that politicians have always been thieves, or that politics necessarily degrade those who properly study and attend to them. The best men of other days, many of the world's benefactors, were politicians, and from politicians of unsullied character must the salvation of this country come today. But not through blind party allegiance are such men to be placed in power; but through the efforts of honest citizens. For the present terrible condition of affairs in New-York, Philadelphia and Brooklyn, the responsibility must be laid at the door of our respectable men, who have abandoned the field to a ruffianly and dishonest mob. They have been recreant to their highest trust, and the only atonement that is now left for them to make is to recover by earnest battle the ballot-box from the hands of the dishonest men who hold it. In conclusion, Mr. TALMAGE eloquently called upon all honest men to vote at the election, to attend primaries, and nominate proper men. In this way, he said, the country might yet be saved from the fate that now threatens it.

Home, Sweet Home—Theodore Tilton's Views on Marriage and Divorce.

In the Unity Church, corner of One Hundred and Twenty-eighth-street and Fourth-avenue, last evening, THEODORE TILTON delivered his new lecture, entitled "Home, Sweet Home." His remarks chiefly related to the subject of marriage and divorce. He said that his object would be to see how he could cast hell out of and bring heaven into the home. The home was not the dwelling raised with rude hands, but the human heart. In the human heart it is built, and its corner-stone is love. A blow, or a rude breath even, will crush its intangible walls. Marriage was the golden key with which it was opened, divorce the iron key with which it was closed. "Marriage," says the Church, "is a sacrament." "Not so," says the State. Man was seized at his birth by these twin jailers, Church and State, who, robbing him of his birthright, march down through life as a constable on either side of him. In the forty States of this Union, there were as many as forty different causes given as grounds for divorce, including the absence of the husband for periods varying from one to seven years. Which was right and which wrong? The statutes of all the States show a regular junk-shop of law through the confusion of which no man can determine what is right, if indeed any of them are. The marriage, according to the law of nature, is made before the ceremony, and the law of the State only records that already existing fact. Nature's marriage of one man and one woman, continuing through life, and perhaps after death, alone brings peace and makes home, sweet home. Mutual love is the corner-stone of the constructed home of the human heart, and where that does not exist, there can be no moral marriage. The service of the Episcopal Church speaks of the parties being lawfully married. This means lawfully in the sight of God, and if the marriage be not lawful in the sight of God, then it is not lawful at all. It was the marriage which maintained the oath, not the oath the marriage. How can a man or woman take an oath to love and honor another, who may become both unlovable and dishonorable? He had known, too, a man marrying an heiress when he was as poor as a church mouse, and endowing his wife at the altar with all his worldly goods when he is actually stealing hers. After analyzing at great length the law of divorce in the different States, in several of which, he said, it practically amounted to his theory, he claimed that he was sustained also by MILTON, HUMBOLDT, and others, in maintaining the theory that marriage should be dissolved the moment both or either of the parties proclaimed their desire to that effect. He would have the State law cleared of every prohibition of divorce, and place the contract on the basis of every other civil contract, revocable at the concurrent option of the parties.

The Honest Man—Sermon by Dr. Mandeville.

Rev. Dr. MANDEVILLE, of the Dutch Reformed Church in Harlem, preached last evening to his flock on "The Honest Man." His sermon was denunciatory of the present municipal corruption, and contained wholesome advice to the voters of his parish as to their duty at the coming election. Speaking of the character of the "honest man" he said: If elected to office he will seek to discharge his duties honorably. He will not be guilty of peculations upon the public treasury. His course will be marked by the strictest integrity, and his whole aspiration will be to discharge faithfully the requirements of his position. No spirit of avarice or unholy ambition will lead him to betray the trust reposed in him and his ways shall be pure. In closing, the speaker exhorted his hearers to cultivate such uprightness of character themselves, and to reward it in others.

Retirement of Rev. Joseph P. Thompson from the Pulpit.

Yesterday morning Rev. JOSEPH P. THOMPSON, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle Church, made to his congregation the following announcement:

"In fulfillment of a purpose formed some time ago, for a reason strictly personal, which, at that time, was conclusive to my own mind, and which has since become imperative, I do now resign the office of pastor in this church, which I have held for more than twenty-six years. I shall request the church at its meeting on the 1st of November next to unite with me in calling a council for the dissolution of the pastoral relation. The cause which has compelled me to this step, at the same time compels my retirement from every form of public office and responsibility. In making this announcement from a decided, though painful conviction of duty, I throw myself upon that indulgent regard with which this people of my love have always favored me."

It appears that a physical injury sustained by Dr. THOMPSON in the service of the army has so far impaired his constitution that he can no longer endure the pressure of pastoral cares. He will devote his retirement to the subject of Egyptology, and will probably soon go to Germany and to Egypt for this purpose.

Rev. David Mitchell on Patriotism.

At the Canal-street Presbyterian Church, yesterday morning, Rev. DAVID MITCHELL addressed a large congregation on "Patriotism." He is no patriot, he said, who secretly or openly connives at corrupt practices. All patriots must consider with dismay the disclosures of the past months. He is an enemy of his nation and kindred who is received in high places with honor and reverence, and who at the same time is wasting the people's money and draining the City of its strength.

Rev. A. H. Gessner on the Recent Fires.

Rev. A. H. GESSNER, rector of Grace Church, West Farms, in his sermon yesterday morning, with reference to the recent destructive fires in Chicago and the North-west, said that if we receive no other lesson from the fire of Chicago, it may teach us this happy one—that humanity now has sympathy, and that the kingdom of Christ is advancing in the world. A large collection was taken up after the sermon in aid of the sufferers.

Catholic Contributions for Chicago Sufferers.

In accordance with directions in a pastoral letter from Archbishop MCCLOSKEY, collections were made at the various masses and at the vespers in all the Catholic Churches of the City yesterday. The total collected, judging from the large sums known to have been contributed at particular churches, is expected to reach a very high figure, but it is impossible to approximate to the aggregate sum, inasmuch as the amounts received at several of the churches were not counted, and will not be known until this afternoon. The following are the returns received so far:

St. Stephen's, $3,500; Epiphany, $700; Nativity, $631; St. Francis Xavier, Sixteenth-street, $2,000; St. Joseph's, Sixth-avenue and West Washington Place, $1,100; St. Teresa's, Rutger-street, $1 000; St. Rose, Cannon-street, $300; Immaculate Conception, East Fourteenth-street, $763; Most Holy Redeemer, Third-street, $664; Our Lady of Sorrows, Pitt-street, $500; St. Bridget's, Avenue B and Eighth-street, $1,366 50; St. Nicholas, Second-street, $430; St. Mary's, Grand-street, $815; Holy Cross, West Forty-second-street, $800; Holy Innocents, West Thirty-seventh-street, $1,000; St. Columba's, West Twenty-fifth-street, $400; St. Francis, West Thirty-first-street, $260; St. Michael's, West Thirty-first-street, $854; St. Paul's, Fifty-ninth-street and Ninth-avenue, $1,400; St. Vincent de Paul's, Twenty-third-street, $250; total, $18,571 50. The amount at St. Peter's was probably about $2,000, and at St. Patrick's about $1,000. The Church of the Assumption, Forty-ninth-street, St. Ann's, Twelfth-street, St. Boniface, Forty-seventh-street and Second-avenue, St. John the Evangelist, St. Vincent Ferrer, West Sixth-street, St. Gabriel, Seventh-street, St. James', James-street, St. Andrews, Transfiguration, St. Alphonsus, and St. Anthony have yet to be heard from.

The Central Park Yesterday.

Such a day as yesterday is a positive enjoyment in itself, and gives a sense of happiness as exhilarating as champagne. No doubt the great masses of our fellow-citizens who take their recreation on the Sabbath found it so. But it is a surprising fact that in the Central Park there were comparatively few visitors. It is true that the green of the meadows is no longer of the deep emerald hue that distinguished it in Summer, and that the trees are becoming bare and gaunt. But the Fall has its own glories, and the splendor of the dying leaves well atones for the skeleton lines of many trees and the dimmed emerald of the turf.

There were comparatively few visitors to the Park, probably because one or two bad Sundays have broken the habit that people had got into of going there. Yet comparatively few there means after all many thousands. The cages of the wild beasts and the aviaries attracted a great number of gazers, and the falling off was hardly apparent here. It was most visible in the Mall, and the fine Terrace that overlooks the lake. Here, during the Summer, the walk was as crowded as Kensington Gardens, in England, or the far-famed Rotten Row. But yesterday it was by no means difficult for even a very absent man to walk without jostling or being jostled. This is fortunate in this one respect that there were fewer to notice the disgraceful pedestal to the fine group of the Indian Hunter and his Dog. It was presented to the Park some time ago, and was placed on a temporary wooden pedestal. This has never been replaced by a fitting permanent structure, and the timbers have cracked and are bulging out shamefully, looking, indeed, as if the whole thing were about to topple down in hideous ruin. The comments of some of the passers-by were rather caustic upon the authorities who had spent $3,000,000 in seventeen months, and yet never had the decency to give a proper pedestal to a work of the truest genius.

A few boats were out on the lake, but they were not warmly patronized. Prudent mammas considered the water too damp for their offspring, and preferred to give them rides in the goat-chaises. The goats found the weather much more suitable for their toils than the hot days of Summer, when they used to drag their carriages most reluctantly, with one eye constantly on the green luxurious herbage of the sward beyond. Yesterday they trotted along very cheerfully, and looked straight ahead, the meadow being no longer tempting. This species of carriage-riding and the boating were not the only amusements open to the children yesterday. The free swings were, indeed, closed, but there was a merry-go-round, constructed on the best principles, with gorgeously-caparisoned horses, whose necks were superbly arched, and whose manes and tails were of real wool. The ride was two cents per head, and the wheel was worked by the proprietor in person, a stout, good-humored negro, who gave very long rides for the money. This little diversion seems very harmless, and perhaps it would do no great harm if the padlocks were taken of the swings too.

Save Your Burned Trees.

Untold numbers of valuable trees, both fruit-bearing and ornamental, have been destroyed by the devastating fires of Chicago and other parts of the West. Yet, in most instances, the vitality of the roots has not been impaired. It may not be generally known that by cutting off the trees close to the surface of the ground, before Winter, and covering the wounds with a heavy coat of grafting-wax, the life of the tree will be preserved until next Spring, when most young trees, and many large ones that have been standing for more than a score of years, will send up strong and luxuriant canes, which will grow rapidly into desirable trees. Some varieties of evergreens and some deciduous trees will not sprout, while fruit-trees of every sort, grape-vines, currant and berry bushes of every variety, rose bushes and valuable shrubbery, the tops of which have been killed by fire, will sprout again, provided the tops are cut off close to the ground before Winter. If left until next Spring, the vitality of the roots of many trees and many valuable grape-vines will be impaired to such an extent that no sprouts will ever appear. Apple-trees and pear-trees, six to ten inches in diameter, which have been burned to blackness, below the collar of the tree should be removed with axes and carpenter's adz until the live wood and bark have been reached beneath the surface of the ground. Small trees and grape-vines should be sawed off smoothly close to the surface of the earth; and if the wood has been injured below that point, remove the soil, and continue to cut off the heated portions until a live surface is laid bare. Then apply a heavy coat of warm grafting-wax in a liquid state, and before the wax has become hard press a piece of strong brown paper or a piece of any sort of cloth into the wax, after which cover the stump with fine and mellow earth, several inches in depth. Early next Spring remove the soil, leaving not more than an inch in depth over the stump. A suitable grafting-wax for such a purpose may be made of equal parts of tallow and resin of any kind, or pitch. We have frequently made it of one part of linseed-oil, mingled with two parts of coarse, cheap resin or pitch, heated in an iron kettle until the pitch is all dissolved, and the mass is of the consistence of thin tar. It should not be applied scalding hot. In lieu of a paint-brush, employ a swab made of a piece of coarse cloth wrapped around the end of a stick. Very few young trees and but a small proportion of grape-vines and shrubbery have been burned to such an extent as to injure the wood below the collar of the main stem.

Alexis Alexandrowicz.

The impatience of the public to see the Russian Grand Duke is increasing to fever heat, probably because he has not come at the exact time that he was expected. A slight change has been made in the programme. The steamer Mary Powell, after landing the Grand Duke and the Executive and Reception Committees, will take the ladies and gentlemen on board to Fourteenth-street. The great band of 100 performers of the Ninth Regiment will turn out in full-dress uniform. The militia regiments from Brooklyn, New-Jersey and Hoboken will also be present, and one of the independent companies of New-York City, STETSON'S Old Guard, whose uniform is considered the handsomest in the country. Various rumors are flying about the town of the gorgeous character of the Ducal rooms at the Clarendon, and also of the transcendent character of the barouche built by the Messrs. WOODS. Various gossiping stories are also being retailed of the manœuvring practiced by certain gentlemen to get on committees. And the whole attention of the social world is now impatiently fixed on the distant horizon where the ships of the royal hyperborean are not yet visible. We expect that he need scarcely be expected before Tuesday or Wednesday, because his flotilla can only go at the pace of the slowest sailer.

The New-York Infant Asylum—Services at the Broadway Tabernacle.

Last evening services were held in the Broadway Tabernacle for the purpose of making an earnest appeal in behalf of the New-York Infant Asylum, chartered by the State of New-York and organized under the management of representatives from the Protestant denominations of the City. Rev. Dr. MONTGOMERY stated that it was proposed that the trustees shall provide for female infants until the age of eighteen, and boys until twenty-one, carefully educate them and prepare them for useful positions in society. It was proposed not only to provide a home for the reception of these children in this City, but to have a farm in a neighboring county where the children can be reared in convenient cottages, under the care of judicious matrons. Addresses were also delivered by Rev. Drs. BAYLIS and THOMPSON.

A Canadian Sentenced to Death for Attempting to Poison His Wife.

From the Quebec Mercury, Oct. 19.

Justice CASAULT, on Tuesday last, at Rimouski, sentenced HUBERT BANVILLE to be hanged for attempting to poison his wife. The crime was brought to light by the wife's sister, who was attending her during her illness. The poison, obtained from the doctor to "kill rats," was administered by the prisoner in her food regularly during two weeks, and was then only accidentally discovered by the sister drinking a cup of tea in which the poisoner had put some arsenic, when she immediately called out "I am poisoned." This led to an investigation, the arrest, and eventually the conviction of the condemned man. Fortunately the wife has escaped, but the crime is none the less heinous, and deserving of the extreme sentence.

The report that Judge SHANDLEY had been thrown overboard by Tammany gives a great deal of uneasiness to the sympathizers with that faction. THE STOLEN VOUCHERS.

A Fac-Similie of New-York County Book-Keeping.

THE COURT-HOUSE WARRANTS IN THEIR ORIGINAL ORDER

Expenditures in Full of Various Departments and Civil and Criminal Courts.

MINOR ILLUSTRATIONS OF SWINDLING.

The long array of accounts which follows represents all the information which the books of the Controller's Office present in regard to the vouchers said to have been stolen by HAGERTY and BAULCH at the instigation of the men who had reason to fear the consequences of the revelation which would have been made by the production of these papers. It must be observed that there are a great many items of expenditure for which the detailed vouchers were stolen, which were not necessarily of a fraudulent character. The thieves had to make a clean sweep of the place of deposit for the Ingersoll, Garvey, Keyser and other similar vouchers, and of course carried with them a good many others which afforded no condemnatory evidence against the Ring.

The following exhibit, apart from its importance in a legal sense, has a special value as affording a very clear insight into the mode of County book-keeping. We have on several occasions explained how the hocus-pocus of putting accounts of precisely the same character under two or three different heads facilitated the concealment of gross frauds upon the Treasury. An inspection of what follows will give additional force to this explanation. The working apparatus of fraud is laid bare, and the significance of "adjusted claims," "County liabilities," "contingencies," "riot damages," &c., will now be more readily understood. The larger proportion of these figures has already been fully systematized and digested in the TIMES pamphlet on Tammany frauds. A reference to the separate arrangement of the items there made will be necessary to elucidate the accounts now printed. That very small portion of them which has not already appeared in these columns may furnish the occasion of future comment. The entire list should be retained, as, taken together with the TIMES pamphlet, it will be an indispensable guide to a full understanding of the very important and exciting developments of which it will shortly be made the pivot in our local Courts.
